Mother, Child Die In District Auto Collision

Mahoning Mishap Blamed On Skid Of Enon Valley Car

An Enon Valley, Pa., woman and her child were killed when the car in which they were riding collided with another Sunday at 12:15 p. m. on Route 14-A four-tenths of a mile west of Washingtonville in Mahoning County.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Canfield identified the victims as Mrs. Lee Vankirk, 21, and her daughter, Sandy Vankirk, 1, of Enon Valley R. D. 1. Mrs. Vankirk was pronounced dead on arrival at Salem City Hospital, while the child died a short time later.

The patrol said they were passengers in a car driven by Mrs. Gladys Vankirk, 50, also of Enon Valley R. D. 1. She suffered abrasions of the legs and bruises of the body.

Another daughter of the victim, Donna, 3, was not hurt. Two other passengers in the Vankirk car were treated at the hospital. They were Mrs. Patricia Shoaff, 24, and James Shoaff, 25, both of Enon Valley R. D. 1.

Officers said Mrs. Vankirk was westbound when her car slid out of control on a curve. It went left of center and collided with an oncoming car operated by Glenn Rohrer, 40, of 540 Oak St., Leetonia. Officers said the pavement was wet and it was snowing.

Passengers in the Rohrer car were Larry Rohrer, 23, of 220 State St., Leetonia, who was treated for abrasions of the forehead and his son, Roger, 10, who was not hurt.

A Lisbon man suffered minor injuries in one of three area collisions.

Local Pushes Strike At Sterling China Co.

Plant officials and members of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters started negotiations at 8:30 this morning and still were in conference at 11 a. m.

Picket lines still were in place. The pickets were set up by members of Local 24 Friday morning. The dispute apparently is over working conditions at the slip house. All 325 employees of the company have been idled.

Primary's Tuesday

3 Contests Mark Chester's Voting

Final preparations are being completed for Chester's primary election Tuesday, with the nomination for three Council seats hanging in the balance.

The two mayoral candidates, Burton G. Ward, 47, of 851 Phoenix Ave., a Republican, and Alvin B. Clutter, 43, of 544 River Dr., a Democrat, will be unopposed in the voting Tuesday, but will face each other in the general election June 7.

Mayor Harry Abrams, a Republican, is not seeking a new term.

Three other incumbents did not file for new terms prior to the deadline March 5. They are Clerk-Treasurer Roy Cashdollar, and Councilmen Donald Hissam and Walter McSwegin, all Republicans. Hissam and McSwegin now are serving in the Third and Fourth Wards, respectively.

THE ONLY candidate for clerk-treasurer in either party is Donald Hood of 401 Indiana Ave., a Republican. He formerly served in Council and sought the mayor's office.

Voters will settle a three-way

Republican race for a Second Ward Council nomination; a two-man GOP race for the Fifth Ward Council nomination and a two-way Democratic race for the nomination for the Third Ward seat.

The Second and Third Ward nominees will, in effect, win the seats, as there are no opposing candidates of the opposite party to be faced in the general election in June.

Second Ward candidates are Cyril Govey, 62, of 206 Church St., a lifelong resident of Hancock County and a self-employed coal dealer, who previously served as a councilman in 1960-62; Richard Johnston, 28, of Charles St., incumbent, schoolteacher and vice-chairman of the Hancock County Republican Executive Committee, and J. Floyd Peddycoed, 65, of 336 Carolina Ave., a former insurance agent, World War I veteran and past commander of Chester American Legion Post 121.

THIRD WARD candidates are

Major Space Feat

Russia Places Satellite Into Orbit Around Moon

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government told the Communist party congress today that Luna 10 has gone into orbit around the moon, marking a major step toward a manned landing.

The announced Soviet feat chalks up a key victory over the United States, which still has to match the soft moon landing achieved by the Soviet's Luna 9 on Feb. 3. The American lunar program is not scheduled to begin launching rockets to orbit the moon until late this year.

The announcement that Luna 10 had become the first artificial moon satellite was read before delegates to the 23rd party congress gathered in the Kremlin.

The Russians dramatized the feat by playing a recording of the Internationale, the Communist anthem, which Luna 10 had broadcast. Delegates broke into enthusiastic applause as they heard the strains of the anthem.

The broadcast of the anthem also was picked up Sunday by West Germany's Bochum Observatory.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the moon satellite was equipped with scientific instruments "for the exploration of near lunar outer space" and that these were radioing data back to earth.

There was no indication, however, of what data was being received. Nor was there any suggestion that photographs of the moon's surface would be sent back.

The Russians achieved their first moon spectacular in September 1959, when Luna 2 planted the Soviet flag on the moon. In October 1959, Luna 3 made the first photographs of the unseen side of the moon, transmitting pictures of seas, oceans and craters never before seen by man.

After a number of unsuccessful attempts, the Russians made the first soft landing with Luna 9 last February and sent back the first closeup picture of the moon.

Boy Will Face Court In Fire At Salineville

Chief's Foster Son Linked To Flames In Village Building

The 13-year-old foster son of Salineville Police Chief Ray Keister is to be charged in juvenile court at Lisbon Tuesday with igniting a fire which destroyed the Salineville Village Hall and the Keister apartment March 19.

Michael Melillo of Youngstown, arson investigator for the Ohio Fire Marshal's office, said King Wooley will be formally charged with starting the blaze which gutted the E. Main St. structure with a $25,000 loss.

Mayor Stanley Fitch said Melillo, after a final questioning of the thin, dark-haired youth at the fire station Saturday decided to file the charge against the boy who was taken to the detention room of the County Jail at Lisbon.

MAYOR FITCH and Melillo said the youth changed his original story that he had discovered the second floor of the Village Hall ablaze, and indicated he had thrown a match and paper into a hole in the wall of the music studio of Miss Myrtle Strabley.

Wooley had been placed in

Whalen Quits New County College Post

LISBON — Dr. Richard E. Whalen, planning director for the proposed Columbiana County Community College, has decided to quit the post Don R. Gosney, president of the college trustees, announced this morning.

Gosney said the decision by Whalen, who was also president-elect of the proposed college, will be discussed at a meeting of the trustees tonight at Lisbon.

Gosney said Whalen has resigned because of "the rude treatment received in some communities as a professional man."

Whalen has decided to sell the house he purchased for a home along Route 558, and will accept another position, Gosney declared.

The trustees plan to fill Whalen's post "right away," Gosney added.

New Rioting Hits Saigon, Curfew Set

Youth Groups Head For U.S. Embassy After Police Battle

SAIGON (AP)—Rioting broke out in Saigon tonight as Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime wrestled with a rising rebellion on its doorstep and in the northern city of Danang. The U.S. Military Command declared the capital's streets, bars and public places off limits to off-duty American personnel.

Government police with tear gas and clubs broke up about 500 teen-age demonstrators at the old National Assembly building in the Tu Do but the youths then surged toward the Saigon River in the direction of the U.S. embassy.

Another 1,000 demonstrators struck out from the Buddhist Institute, but police beat them back with tear gas and club charges.

The rioting was the worst to hit Saigon in current crisis that threatens the life of Ky's nine-month-old government.

Police cordoned off the U.S. Information Service building, one block from the National Assembly. Tear gas floated in clouds over streets used by the demonstrators to reach the heart of town. The demonstrators appeared to be in the 11 to 15 age bracket.

Demonstrators overturned an American military jeep and set fire to it. None of the occupants were hurt.

The U.S. command declared Saigon off limits round-the-clock to military men shortly before the demonstrators broke out tonight.

In a nationwide broadcast, chief of state Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu appealed once more for an end to the wave of demonstrations and violence.

Twisters Kill 7 In Florida, Damage High

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Tornadoes slashed through at least eight Florida cities today, killing seven persons, injuring dozens more and causing massive damage.

Two stricken counties were declared disaster areas by Gov. Haydon Burns and the National Guard was sent in to help search for survivors in dozens of smashed and twisted buildings.

The seven deaths were reported in Tampa, the state's second largest city with a population of 274,000, and officials indicated there might be more.

At least 100 persons were injured in a widespread area.

About 30 children were hospitalized at Lakeland, some 50 miles east of Tampa, after a twister ripped the roof from a junior high school shortly after the start of classes.

"We're so swamped in the emergency room we can't tell you exactly how many people are hurt," a spokesman for a Lakeland Hospital reported.

In St. Petersburg, just across the bay from Tampa, at least 40 homes in a fashionable residential area were heavily damaged and nine persons were injured, none seriously.

The twisters, spinning viciously out of a dark squall line, first struck at Tampa and St. Petersburg, on the Gulf Coast.

State Police Raid 3 Hancock Clubs With 4 Arrested

West Virginia State Police swooped down on three clubs in Hancock County Saturday night about 10, arresting four persons on charges of possession of liquor and exhibiting gaming devices.

The raiding parties hit at the Paddock Club on the "Strip" on Route 30 between Chester and the Pennsylvania state line; the Club Daily Double on Route 66 about a mile and a half north of New Cumberland, and the Tally-Ho Club on Route 2 about 1.3 miles north of Weirton.

Thirteen troopers joined in the raids, confiscating 43 bottles of liquor in all and 10 alleged gaming devices.

Art Lewis, who lives at the rear of the Paddock Club, was arrested as the owner and Anthony Perrotti of Wheeling was cited as the bartender.

Taken before Squire Thomas Bellanco in Weirton, Lewis posted bond of $107.50 on a gambling charge and $57.50 on a charge of liquor possession and Perrotti posted a $57.50 bond on a charge of liquor sales.

HEARINGS were set for next Saturday at 10 a. m. in Squire Bellanco's court.

Seized in the Paddock were 28 partially-filled liquor bottles, four full bottles, a poker table, a blackjack table and a dice table.

The second floor of the building, once the site of the Jockey Club, was not in operation. The raid was staged by seven troopers led by Sgt. C. J. Hamrock of Moundsville and Cpl. R. R. Truex of Weirton.

The club was hit on July 13 and Dec. 4 last year, when more than $25,000 in gaming equipment was seized. James E. Fife was arrested on both occasions as the owner.

In Saturday night's other activity, Dominic D. Foglietti was arrested as the owner of the Tally-Ho Club. Troopers headed

25-Year Coma Woman Sets Tragic Record

Irene Albert, staff writer for the Clearwater, Fla. Sun, wrote this poignant story of a woman suffering for The Associated Press. Miss Albert has known the Esposito family for years.

By IRENE ALBERT
Clearwater Sun

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Thirty-one-year-old Elaine Esposito has set a world record. But it is a record of human tragedy.

For the past 25 years she has been in a coma—the longest period of human unconsciousness known to medical science. Her case is listed in the Guinness Book of World Records published in London.

On August 6, 1941 the 6-year-old daughter and only child of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Esposito was given anesthesia during surgery for a ruptured appendix. She never regained consciousness, and since has alternated between deep sleep and open-eyed unawareness of the world about her.

Elaine knows neither her mother nor father, himself now the victim of a heart condition.

Medical opinion has been divided as to whether the child had incipient encephalitis at the time of the appendectomy or whether oxygen to the brain was insufficient while she was on the operating table.

Surgeons were closing the incision when their patient went into convulsions and her temperature soared to 107.6.

"At first the doctors told us Elaine wouldn't live through the night. I waited for her to open her eyes and speak to me. But she never did," Mrs. Esposito recalled as she adjusted the coverlet around the shoulders of her dark-haired, dark-eyed daughter whose last words had

9 Parked Cars Damaged In Freak Collision Series

An 83-year-old city motorist was cited for reckless driving after he was injured slightly when his auto struck nine parked cars on McKinnon and Orchard Grove Aves. Sunday morning in a freak series of crashes while he was en route to church.

Paul F. Nellis of 1413 Smithfield St. was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the forehead and right hand. He was taken to the hospital by Patrolman Paul A. Burson Jr. who picked him up at home, where his car also had struck a brick wall while he was turning into his driveway.

Appearing before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff this morning, Nellis entered a "no contest"

Court May Cite Gilbert Over Delays

Rail Firemen Bow To Pressure From Court, White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Train movements rapidly picked up speed over eight major railroads from coast to coast today after rail firemen ended a paralyzing four-day strike.

Under stiff pressure from President Johnson and heavy fines imposed by a federal judge, the union held out to the last minute to win pledges of no reprisals against strikers or members of other unions who refused to cross picket lines.

"We have received assurances that the eight struck railroads will not make any reprisals against any employees," said President H. E. Gilbert of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen in calling off the 38-state strike just before midnight Sunday.

The first commuter train rolled out of the Illinois Central station in Chicago 25 minutes later and operations resumed on the seven other railroads from Maine to Florida to California.

But Gilbert goes back before U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff today, facing possible punishment for the 12-hour delay from Holtzoff's Sunday noon deadline for ending the strike.

Holtzoff had imposed fines of $25,000 a day against the union and $2,500 a day against Gilbert, effective at noon.

When pickets remained hours after Gilbert's noon statement that he would end the strike if no reprisals were promised, railroad attorneys went to Holtzoff.

Walkout Cost 'Millions' In Wages, Profit

CHICAGO (AP)—The four-day strike against eight major railroads put more than 200,000 persons out of work or on part-time duty in 38 states, the carriers report they lost an estimated $5 million daily and the striking firemen lost $320,000 a day in wages.

The strike by about 8,000 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen began Thursday, delaying mail and stalling food and agricultural shipments in rail yards and sidings. It affected industry, transportation to and from work and shipment of freight before being called off Sunday night.

The auto industry was the hardest hit, but the strike ended before the worst came.

The Union Pacific Railroad, one of the struck carriers, estimated that 29,000 employees over its system were idled with loss of wages running at $744,000 a day.

U.S. Lists New Way To Detect Atom Tests

GENEVA (AP)—The United States announced today a new system of detecting underground explosions which it said would make it almost impossible for a nuclear power to deceive on-site inspectors.

The announcement seemed to offer no promise of progress toward an agreement to ban underground nuclear tests, however, unless the Soviet Union modifies its opposition to inspections.

Penalty Given Area Woman

A Calcutta area motorist was fined and a hearing for a youth was continued during traffic hearings today before Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff.

Joann Annette Prince of R. D. 2 was fined $10 and costs after entering a "no contest" plea to a charge of failing to stop with in the assured clear distance.

A hearing for William Vocia Smith, also of R. D. 2, was set for Wednesday. He is accused of stopping his car on a traveled portion of the highway.

Both were cited March 28 after a collision on County Rd. 430. The State Highway Patrol said Smith halted his auto to talk to a friend in another car on Fire House Rd. in St. Clair Township. Smith's car then was hit in the rear by the Prince auto.

Mathias Nava Smith of R. D. 3 was fined $5 and costs on a charge of crashing a traffic signal at Pennsylvania and Dewey Aves. He was cited March 25 by city police.

A hearing is scheduled Friday for Joseph A. Hollister of Toronto, cited March 24 by the patrol on County Rd. 428 on a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way.

McElroy Speaks To 250 Attending Teen-Dem Event

COLUMBIANA — More than 250 attended the Teen - Dems candidates dinner Saturday night at South Side High School here.

The speaker was Mark McElroy, former Ohio attorney general and a candidate for the post. He said that following his election a legislative program would be resumed in an attack against fraudulent promoters and gyp and con artists.

McElroy charged the present attorney general has displayed little, if any, interest in protecting the public.

Other state primary candidates represented were Michael E. Entinger, state treasurer; Ben J. Goldman and Clifford F. Brown, full term on Supreme Court judge; Joseph E. O'Neill, Seventh District Court of Appeals, full term, and Vincent E. Gilmartin, unexpired term on Seventh District Court of Appeals.

All four candidates for State Senate seats and all county office seekers were present, including Robert Owen and Ferguson Kind of East Liverpool and Lew Sowards of near Lisbon, commissioner candidates, and Auditor Kenneth Bell, who is unopposed.

Don R. Gosney, Columbiana County Democratic chairman, gave the closing remarks.

9 Get Citation For Speeding

Cracking down on speeders, the State Highway Patrol cited nine motorists over the week-end for hearings this week in Municipal Court.

Patrick D. Tucker of Brave, Pa., posted a $17.50 bond for a hearing this morning before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on a charge of speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60-mile zone on Routes 30 and 7.

Hearings are scheduled Wednesday for:

August N. Battisti of Struthers, cited for 70 in 50-mile zone Saturday night in radar check on Route 30, $17.50 bond.

Victor Napoli of Cleveland, same speed and time except he was released without bond.

Oscar Schwartz of Richmond Heights, same place, time and speed, $17.50 bond.

John E. Eifer of Cannons Mills Rd., same place and time, 75 in 50-zone, radar.

George Bingham, 2505 Woodbine Ave., Saturday, East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd., 75 in 60-mile zone.

Bruce Pickel of New Castle, Saturday on Route 30, 70 in 50-mile zone, radar, $17.50 bond.

Scheduled to appear Thursday are Hazel Bires of Youngstown, also cited Saturday night on Route 30 for traveling 70 in a 50-mile zone, and William MacBurney, 334 Vine St., cited Saturday on the East Liverpool-Wellsville Rd. for traveling 75 in a 60-mile zone.

'Ohio' Magazine Circulation Hits 70,000 For June

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A new Ohio magazine has locked up its first year anniversary issue well on the way to its goal of 100,000 subscriptions and confident of making that mark.

"The Wonderful World of Ohio" a monthly published by the state Natural Resources Department, claims 59,000 paid subscriptions and total circulation, counting news stand sales, of about 70,000.

It may not hit the goal of 100,000, set by Gov. James A. Rhodes when he ordered the magazine started, by the June issue. But, said W. Kelton Jones, chief of administrative services for the Natural Resources Department, "I feel sure that they will."

"I would like to see a minimum of 100,000 to 150,000," Jones said, "but as an individual I would like to see it hit a quarter of a million."

The magazine is not paying its way yet from the subscriptions, but it may do that, too.

"We will hit a point where costs will be met by income, but not at this point," Jones said. At present, that point would be about 100,000 circulation. Cutting costs might lower the break-even point.

Costs are hard to assess, since many Natural Resources employees who work on the magazine also have other duties. Other state departments contribute articles and photographs, too.

The magazine replaced a "Conservation Bulletin" formerly published by the department. It never paid its own way. That publication had 24,000 circulation, which "Wonderful World" inherited, along with the Bulletin staff.

Road Program Set Up In Franklin Township

SUMMITVILLE — The summer road program set up with the county commissioners was announced by Paul Dowdell, president, at the meeting of the Franklin Township trustees Saturday afternoon.

The program will include 8.5 miles of surface sealing and 5.8 miles of oiling of township roads. Dowdell said. The work will require 1,500 tons of slag, which already are on hand.

Trustees also were advised that snow fences have been removed along township roads. Bills totaling $668 were paid. The next meeting will be April 16.

Grange To Hear Talk By Curran

A. L. Curran, Beaver County agent, will be guest speaker when Frankfort Springs Grange 1989 meets April 11.

Members are arranging a display of garden tools as part of the program.

The Rev. Glenn Dague of the Tucker Methodist Church will speak during the sunrise service at the Grange Hall Easter Sunday at 6:30. Music will be included on the program.

Doughnuts and coffee will be served following the service, with the public invited.

Grange members have voted to sponsor western-style square dance lessons as a community progress project. Plans also are being made for free sewing lessons. Information may be obtained from Mrs. R. P. McMillan, worthy master.

Glenmoor's Firemen Praised On Training

Members of the Glenmoor volunteer fire department have made "outstanding" progress in the first five weeks of a fire-fighting course, the instructor, Chief Alfred Van Dyne of East Liverpool, said today.

Designed to improve fire prevention in the Glenmoor area, the training is provided as part of the public service program of the Trade and Industrial Vocational Education Service of the State Department of Education in cooperation with the East Liverpool Board of Education.

Custodian Appointed For Park At Chester

Carl Price was named custodian of Chester City Park at a meeting of the Park Commission Sunday in the Community Building to succeed Gilbert Collins, resigned.

Little League organizations were given permission to use the baseball facilities. A request for permission to use the park building for antique auctions was tabled pending further information.

Lawrence Cline cited the need for repairs to the building and the surrounding fence. Harold Dickey announced plans to ready the playground for summer activities. All members were present. Dickey presided.

Salineville Egg Hunt Scheduled Saturday

The Salineville Ministerial Association will sponsor an Easter egg hunt Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Mrs. Lucy Fox farm on Foundry Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dumbleton of Salem have concluded a visit with Salineville relatives. Mrs. Stella Jakubowski is visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davner of Lisbon.

Dedicated to the Public Interest

The manner in which the Dawson Funeral Home serves East Liverpool area families, goes far beyond the application of technical skills. The service we provide is only part of the story. The responsibility we assume is equally important.

Assisting families through an emergency calls for dedication to serving individual needs and desires. It is a matter of relieving others of responsibilities and worry by anticipating family needs and wishes throughout the entire funeral experience. It costs no more at Dawson's.

Families who have observed our dedication to service and responsibility... frequently far beyond expectations... recommend us with confidence. We hope you will, too.

The Fiends On The Phones

An angry and disturbed district woman has phoned to complain of anonymous calls—punctuated with a steady stream of obscenity—which have been directed at two of her daughters.

There undoubtedly are cases of a similar nature which have not been reported. The problem is a growing one.

According to Stephen H. Eibling, Ohio Bell commercial manager here, Ohio Bell business offices throughout the state last year answered more than 84,000 complaints about annoyance telephone calls.

"Our policy has always been to insure that customers receive the best service possible," Eibling points out. "When the telephone becomes an instrument of annoyance, unpleasantness or terror, it is a very serious matter for the company as well as the customer. We are anxious to do everything within our means to remove the source of customer irritation."

Since the annoying call may come to anyone at any time, the best way to minimize its effect, according to those who have studied the matter, is to know beforehand how to handle it. Every kind of call, whether lewd, crank, larcenous, weird, or just plain annoying can be coped with to some degree. Forewarning can drastically reduce their number. The following suggestions will help:

If a threat is made at any time, call the police. If obscene or nuisance calls persist, call Ohio Bell. The company will, at your request, do all it can to cooperate with authorities in apprehending such offenders.

Know to whom you are talking. Anyone who asks for information should be identified to your satisfaction.

When someone calls and asks "What number is this?" Don't answer the question unless you find out what the caller wants to know. The reason may well be legitimate. If he does not give his name, ask him to introduce himself and tell you what he wants.

Instruct children and babysitters not to give out information indiscriminately. Just have them obtain the caller's name and number and say that you will call them back.

If a caller remains silent after you have picked up the phone and said "Hello" twice, hang up.

Should a caller make an indecent remark, hang up quickly, but softly. People who make such calls are looking for a reaction. Don't give them what they want. Don't listen.

In extreme and persisting cases your local law enforcement agency and Ohio Bell stand ready and willing to give assistance.

Can anonymous calls be stopped? Not in all cases, but the telephone annoyances can be deterred and the number of effective calls he makes can be reduced.

Last year Ohio Bell, in cooperation with local authorities, was instrumental in the arrest of seven threatening or obscene callers. Persons convicted of such calls face a maximum $500 fine, six months in prison, or both.

As police and the telephone company gain experience and their methods become more sophisticated in the annoyance calling area, more arrests and convictions will be made and the practice further curtailed.

The Kids Come Through Again

Once more for the would like to express a sincere appreciation for the youngsters who have been participating in the various county spelling bees.

As the years go by, we continue to be amazed at the poise, stage presence and ability of the contestants under great pressure.

There are times when a spell will miss a word because of mere carelessness or misunderstanding, but generally they hang in there all the way until floored by a "toughie."

Lasting benefits are inevitable from the bees—both for the winners and the losers. The rugged practice sessions which lie behind each contest assure better spellers. And, as many well know, better spelling is something we can use more of in many, many cases.

We in the county have been fortunate in the interest and cooperation displayed during the bees — by the students themselves, by the teachers and school administrators, by parents and by others.

Misunderstandings arise on occasions — as they do in most forms of competition — but all in all the spelling program has proved quite successful.

To the five youngsters who will represent Columbiana County at Canton on April 22, the best of luck. The competition will be keen, but already your have demonstrated the ability of which champions are made.

A trip to Washington would be a fitting reward for the hours of effort you have put into the spell-downs.

Viet Nam Turmoil

WASHINGTON

The gruesome thing about the demonstrators efforts in South Viet Nam to overthrow their government in the midst of war is not only what happens now but what may lie ahead.

The Associated Press reported that in the demonstrations around the country against the military government of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky much less than 1 per cent of the population has been directly involved.

Most of the other South Vietnamese are indifferent to politics and just want to stay alive. But a hard core of experienced politicians and religious figures, Buddhists, are behind the agitation.

In short, most of the Vietnamese have little knowledge or experience in democratic government. And the agitators don't seem to understand what stability of government in the midst of war means.

They overestimated the civilian rule of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a dictator. Military officers who seized power later were thrown out. Now the agitators are after Ky. They want a civilian government.

BUT IT COULD hardly be a truly representative government since most of the countryside is in the hands of the Viet Cong. And President Johnson has shown confidence in Ky by meeting with him in Honolulu earlier this year.

In the midst of it all there is a growing undertone of anti-Americanism in a land which Americans are dying to defend. If enough chaos develops, it is not inconceivable that Americans would be asked to leave.

This not only would be one of the most shattering embarrassments in American history but badly damage its influence in Asia and elsewhere. And worse than that would surely follow.

Chaos and political conflict, particularly civil war among the South Vietnamese, would al-

Poor J. V. Lindsay

The most fascinating thing going on in politics has to be the character assassination of John V. Lindsay, the interloper who broke into the Power Establishment of New York City.

He was able to do this because enough New Yorkers had lost confidence in the Power Establishment to back away from it at the polls last November. It had brought their city to the brink of bankruptcy. It had made streets unsafe in daylight. New York was physically and mentally befooled, and the Power Establishment offered voters nothing but more of the same.

So voters put in a new boy.

And now the old boys are trying to destroy him in a bloody ritual so ancient it outdates Manhattan Island. They are making the young mayor cut his own political throat.

Because New York City was broke, he had to propose new taxes. Is it not true, shriek the old boys, that anyone who proposes new taxes should be cast from a high cliff into the abyss of political disgrace?

And from the pink gullets of millions of taxpayers who want the moon on a platter at no cover charge comes the answer, like bleating of sheep, "Baaaaaaddddd!"

Because the New York City police force had been a fiefdom dominated by professional Irishmen, Mayor Lindsay, elected by the citizens of New York, not the police force, asserted what should be obvious anywhere on earth—that he must have authority over the police to go with his responsibility for what policemen do.

He was striking here at the very heart of the Power Establishment — a hitherto unchallenged assumption that cozy arrangements sanctioned by tacit consent were never to be disturbed.

The police force always was to be run by professional Irishmen and the mayor was to keep his nose out of it because in return the professional Irishmen would keep their noses out of his affairs.

The city was to be hag-ridden by bully-boys of unionism who threatened it with subway and bus strikes, dock strikes, elevator-operator strikes and other forms of mass coercion. Under no circumstances was the mayor to thwart them. He was to mediate in their favor whenever they figured the people were ready to whimper, "Uncle."

Is it possible for a non-Democratic, non-Catholic, non-Irish, non-Establishment outsider to survive in the biggest wolf den in American municipal politics?

And if Democrats don't get him, will Republicans, who consider him a renegade, cut his throat while he is grappling with those other fellows?

Tune in from time to time on the misadventures of J. V. Lindsay in the wolf den. There's more hell popping than there is in Peyton Place.

The Anvil Chorus

One Vehement Union Leader

By Victor Riesel

Meet the man who told presidential advisers to go to hell. It's worth the trip. In Newark, N.J., this chap, Peter Weber, is known as a yachtsman, sportsman, lover of fast new cars, businessman as well as the heavily paid president and business manager of the famed Operating Engineers' Local 825.

Mr. Weber, who handles his 52-foot yacht, the Co-Pilot, as well as he does his membership meetings, also is under indictment in a case now before the Supreme Court.

He has been accused by the government of accepting five cars, stock, and other "things of value" such as gas credit cards and fuel and maintenance of his "old tub" from businesses which hire operating engineers and deal with his union.

The gay, 56-year-old Peter Weber, a sort of one-man affluent society, broke into the news when he defied President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisers, told them in a loud session to go to hell, shouted that he would insist on a $7.75-an-hour top wage rate for his people. This came to an increase of $1.35 an hour or many times the presidential wage guidelines.

Later, he called the council a bunch of "eggheads." One labor man, chuckling, admiringly said of the economic summit meeting: "I don't think they're going to bluff this guy. He's a pretty tough cookie."

INDEED HE IS. He's a specialist in defiance. Not too many years ago, he permitted his union, Local 825, to pay some $238,000 to his former chief, extortioner Joe Pay, after the latter had gone to prison for shaking down contractors out of vast funds in exchange for union labor peace.

Public opinion apparently meant little. Mr. Weber feels quite secure in his union post so there is nothing like comforting an old friend like Pay.

Not even the four-year-old indictment on charges of conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Law has shaken Mr. Weber's power in his union. He has been re-elected and hailed by such dedicated lawmakers as congressmen and New Jersey state officials.

All this has intrigued the Department of Labor — especially the enforcement of the Bureau of Labor-Management and Welfare-Pension Report, Compliance Division.

This bureau has challenged one of Mr. Weber's elections and is investigating another. The so-called democratic processes in this union should be of significance to those interested in the essence of power. It's a pattern stamped on thousands of local unions across the land.

THE HEAVILY PUBLICIZED Local 825 is really a master national-type union in itself. Though its headquarters are on Fleming Ave., Newark, and though it is called a local, it actually covers all of New Jersey and spills over the state line into New York counties.

It has some 8,000 members who work on all sorts of construction worth billions of dollars annually — ranging all the way from roads and bridges to small buildings.

It has an election system all its own. Some 50 per cent, perhaps 60 per cent, cannot run for office nor can they nominate candidates. They are in what is called "branches" or in the B or C classifications.

Only Class A members can run or nominate candidates.

All A, B and C members can vote for candidates but this gives them no chance to fight for a ticket of their own choosing.

Furthermore, what fascinates the government now locked in a cobra-flute relationship, is the rule that candidates must declare themselves as early as the November before the actual nomination. This comes in May, some six months later. The elections then follow.

IN THE INTERVENING six months, one can do a lot of arguing with the opposition—urging its withdrawal. And there are all sorts of forceful arguments which can be made.

In addition the elections are held in Newark. This means that union members downstate or over in New York must travel as much as 100 miles and more to vote.

It just gets to be "too much" for some members who have to be back on the job early the next day or that night.

The government is looking hard at the process which makes Peter Weber the forceful citizen he is.

Mr. Weber hardly appears concerned over the fact that he is an item for the U.S. Supreme Court and for the Department of Labor's investigatory division and for the crusading U.S. attorney, Dave Satz.

Certainly, "eggheads" would be mild compared with these other forces on his back.

Why then did he suddenly retreat the other night after telling the "eggheads" to go to hell? Why did he accept binding arbitration of the $7.75-an-hour wage bid? This was a rare retreat. Not only did this set a national precedent for Weber in particular but for labor in general.

Insiders say that the government did finally call his bluff. They held a stronger hand than he did.

High Cost Of Living Discussed

The "high cost of living" some times transcends everything else as a political issue. It was this issue which in 1910 abruptly terminated 16 years of Republican rule of Congress and gave the Democrats a majority in the House of Representatives, though two years before the Republicans had won the presidential contest by a landslide vote.

Last week the Department of Labor revealed that the cost of living has taken a big jump — in fact, the largest of any February in eight years.

The administration's economist David Lawrence omits are hopeful that conditions will improve and prices will be held down but experience proves that, once the cost of living rises substantially, the pressure for wage increases starts growing and there is eventually a trend toward higher and higher prices all along the line.

Food prices are the ones that now are attracting attention as they move higher. Many other items, however — such as doctor and hospital services, mortgage interest rates, home maintenance and repairs, clothing, gasoline, heating fuel and housekeeping services — are costing more than before.

Naturally, labor unions are watching these prices and will express themselves in a demand for higher wages.

IN SOME INDUSTRIES provision has been made for an automatic increase in pay when the cost of living goes up, but only a small fraction of the nation's workers are covered by such contracts. Indeed, although the average take-home pay went up by about 20 cents a week in February over the preceding month, the rising prices absorbed the increase and left the workers with less real income than he had in January.

The dollar is, of course, continuing to diminish in buying power. With the February figures included, it costs $11.16 to buy now what $10 purchased in goods and services about eight years ago.

Not only is the non-unionized worker affected adversely but also the employees in unionized industries. Nor are the effects of the higher costs of living confined to the lower income groups.

Thus, a factory worker who earned $7,000 last year and got a $300 increase this year finds himself spending $288 of his raise not only for higher living costs but for increased Social Security taxes, higher state and local taxes, as well as an additional $49 in his federal income tax payment. This leaves him only $12, or less than 25 cents a week, in the increase of his income.

A WHITE COLLAR WORKER who earned $10,000 last year and got a raise of $400 this year winds up with only 83 cents additional a week after paying the same items of expense, including higher living costs.

A junior executive whose salary was $15,000 last year, with a raise of $600 this year, winds up with about $2.25 more a week after taking care of the above expenses.

While some of these groups of citizens are not being hurt too much by the rise in the cost of living, they are facing increased costs in other ways — as, for instance, in the higher cost of college education and other items that confront a family through the year.

It's really the low-income family that is being affected most by the higher cost of food and other necessities, and this could mean a sizeable protest vote in the November elections. In every election it's not a simple issue or the attitude of any one group but the collective reaction of all groups that changes the previous trend.

IT'S TOO EARLY, of course, to weigh the part that any issue may play in the forthcoming elections, but certainly there are signs of increasing discontent on the economic side which is not alleviated by the latest disclosure that the cost of living rose substantially for the month of February.

Nor are economic conditions made any more palatable by the news that President Johnson now is inclined to recommend a tax increase of 5 to 7 per cent — corporate and personal — as a means of preventing inflation from pushing down even further the value of the dollar.

It takes a long time before the full effects of a tax increase are known. Meanwhile, more and more uncertainty is created as to whether the economy can be stabilized or is to enter a period of greater disturbance. The mere imposition of higher taxes not only can break down a boom but can bring about an even greater deficit in the federal treasury and thus tend to diminish the value of the monetary unit.

House Plans Active Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House starts today what may be one of its busiest and most productive weeks of the year.

Most of the action will deal with pay raises for government employees, food for India's hungry masses, and more than $8.3 billion in appropriations for the Treasury, Post Office and Interior Departments.

Congress plans to quit after Thursday's session for the Easter break, with return scheduled for April 18.

The Senate's only business this week will be consideration Tuesday of a resolution to veto President Johnson's plan to shift the Community Relations Service from the Commerce Department to the Justice Department. Unless Congress votes down the shift, it will go into effect April 11.

The Senate does not meet today, but the House considers a bill to give federal civilian and postal employees a pay raise and fringe benefits of about 3.2 percent.

After that, the House will take up a bill to sell or give to India surplus food, including 3.5 million tons of feed grains. Although the President already has authority to make the transaction, Congress was asked to reaffirm it.

The pay raise and food-for-India bills are certain of House passage, although an informal understanding forbidding roll-call votes until Wednesday may delay approval until then.

Seventeen other bills, all of them relatively minor, are on today's House docket.

Tuesday the House will tackle a bill appropriating $1.1 billion to finance the Interior Department for the fiscal year starting July 1.

It will follow Wednesday with the annual Treasury and Post Office appropriation bills. The President has requested more than $7 billion for the departments.

The two appropriation measures may give budget-conscious advocates of cutting nondefense programs a chance to renew their battle. They failed last week to slash the $2.5-billion appropriation bill the House has sent to the Senate. The bill included funds to start the new rent subsidy and Teachers Corps programs.

One major measure cleared Congress last week, providing that in 1967 daylight-saving time shall be uniform throughout the different time zones. For this year the bill requires only that any time change must begin April 24 and end Oct. 30.

Ohio's Road Toll Hits 28

Traffic
Fire

By The Associated Press
Palm Sunday 1966, like Palm Sunday 1965, has left a tragic imprint on Ohio.

The pre-Easter holy day marked last year by one of the state's worst disasters — tornadoes that killed three score — this time saw Ohio record its biggest one-day traffic toll of 1966.

At least 18 persons perished on a day marked by accidents that killed six at one clip and three at another.

The result was a weekend toll of at least 28 in the 54 hours between 6 p. m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

There were no tornadoes this time, but weather played a part in the highway slaughter in which college and high school youth made up the majority of victims. Rain-slicked roads were cited as a contributing factor in several fatal wrecks.

Two deaths from home fires, one in a gun accident and one in a fall from a kitchen stool boosted the weekend's over-all accident death toll to at least 32.

Traffic fatalities reported since noon Saturday:

Saturday
Mrs. Louise Plata, 52, Rt. 1, Chardon, and her daughter, Diana, 19, when their car skidded on a slushy road near Chardon and collided with another car. Diana, the driver, died after the accident in a Chardon hospital.
Edward Gersbach, 51, Washington Court House, when his car ran off Ohio 734 near his home town.

Mrs. Violet Hefner, 32, Cleveland, thrown from the motorcycle on which she was a passenger when it collided with a car at a Cleveland intersection.

Sunday
Elmer K. Culp, 19, and his brother Jackie, 17, Rt. 1, South Vienna; Homer L. Bell, 17, Rt. 3, London; Steve Duncan, 15, Rt. 2, Mechanicsburg, and Alfred Yeane, 54, and his wife, Velma, 41, of Springfield, when the car driven by Elmer Culp and the Yeane auto collided on Ohio 54 near South Vienna, Clark County.

Leonard W. Bowman, 18, Wilmington; Marcia Kyle, 18, Spring Valley, and Danni Davis, 19, Canton, when their car missed a curve on a rural road north of Hillsboro. Bowman and the others were freshmen at Wilmington College.

Mrs. Lee Vankirk, 21, and Sandy Vankirk, 1, Enon Valley, Pa., passengers in one of two autos that collided on Ohio 14-A near Washingtonville on the Mahoning-Columbiana County line.

Clyde Tvo Jr., 23, Chillicothe, died Sunday of injuries suffered when the motorcycle he was riding Saturday night rammed a tree in Chillicothe.

Susanne E. Dunne, 16, Centerville, occupant of a car which struck a tree in her home town in Montgomery County.

Walter R. Hering, 42, Cincinnati, when his car hit a pole near Cincinnati.

Francis Russell, 19, Harveysburg, Warren County, drowned after the stolen car he was driving plunged into Stonelick Reservoir in Clermont County.

William L. World, 20, Cincinnati, passenger in a car that hit a tree in Cincinnati.

William Bayer, 24, Akron, in a one-car wreck on Ohio 8 north of Cuyahoga Falls.

John O. Knepper, 18, Rt. 2, Oak Harbor, passenger in a car that collided with an empty bus on U. S. 33 north of Athens.

The non-traffic fatalities:
Jack C. Tumlin, 32, Columbus, in a house fire Friday night.

Mrs. Alma Marie Moeller, 73, Ross, when a can of gasoline ignited a fire that spread to her clothing at her home in Butler County Saturday.

Michael Kish, 5, Cleveland, shot in the chest when the loaded pistol he and his brother, 7, found in a dresser discharged Saturday, 6.

Rhonda Souder, 2, Blacklick, Franklin County, whose spine was fractured when she fell from a kitchen stool Sunday.

Job Needs Cited For 22 Counties

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio bureau of unemployment compensation report released Saturday on 22 Ohio counties shows several sore spots in the state's employment picture.

Among the 22 counties, not grouped geographically, are many in the Appalachian area. The report listed February unemployment rates, which were as high as 16.3 per cent.

Adams County had the 16.3 per cent rate, followed by Clermont County, 15.1 per cent, and Pike County, 14.9 per cent.

However, the 22 counties as a group, had a February unemployment rate 2.4 per cent lower than in February 1964, the report said. The aggregate rate was 4.5 per cent this February, the BUC said.

Other county unemployment rates for February 1966:

Athens 4.8; Auglaize 2.6; Brown 9.2; Hamilton 3.2; Harrison 3.5; Hocking 10.9; Jackson 9.3; Madison 5.4; Mercer 2.9; Morgan 5; Muskingum 5.1; Perry 8.1; Ross 6.1; Sandusky 3.9; Scioto 8.9; Tuscarawas 4.9; Union 4.7; Vinton 7.1, and Warren 11.6.

Army Announces Delay In Forming 2 Brigades

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two regular Army brigades mentioned by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara as among "several important steps" taken to boost readiness, still exist only on paper, it was learned today.

The Army acknowledged that formation of the two brigades at Ft. Campbell, Ky., and Ft. Benning, Ga., has slipped by several months.

"Higher priority activations of new units scheduled for deployment to Viet Nam caused a slippage in the original schedule," the Army said.

Spokesmen said the two units, which will total nearly 8,000 men in all, are now to be organized during the next three months.

The brigade designated for Ft. Campbell was to have been set up in January, the one at Ft. Benning in February.

The AP inquired about the status of the two brigades after McNamara made public a letter March 31 defending his policy of using four regular Army divisions in the United States to train recruits and draftees.

In the letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, McNamara conceded that this reduced the combat readiness of the four divisions. But, the secretary assured Stennis, "several important steps were taken to offset this."

Among those steps, McNamara said, "the active Army is being temporarily augmented by one division and three brigades, the equivalent of two division forces."

The new 9th Infantry Division, referred to by the Pentagon chief, was activated in early February at Ft. Riley, Kan. That was about two months behind schedule and the division will be in combat shape next fall, by present indications.

One of the three brigades was formed according to plan last October at Ft. Devens, Mass. Army sources said it is now about ready.

The brigades consist of three infantry battalions, one artillery battalion and other supporting units.

Like the new division and the brigade already formed, the two brigades yet to be organized will be built around a nucleus of experienced officers and non-commissioned officers drawn from other elements of the regular Army. The balance of their strength will come from newly enlisted or inducted men.

Our little airline no longer is.

We can still remember the days when we would say, "Fly Lake Central Airlines," and people would ask, "Lake who?"

They're gone, those days.

Today we'll fly you at least one hundred miles an hour faster than we've ever flown you before. On new French prop-jet Nordes, and Convairs converted to prop-jets.

Next year we'll fly you twice as fast on our all-jet jets.

You can expect more one-stop flights on old multi-stop routes, too. And cocktails and snacks on every flight.

On the ground or in the air, something somewhere has changed at Lake Central.

If nothing else, it's the whole concept of "little."

Little? We're spending $20 million in the next three years to make a First Class flight out of every one of our flights.

Not too bad for a former Little Leaguer.

Strike

zoff's home and the judge ordered the union to show cause why the fines should not be raised to $500,000 and $10,000 a day.

The end of the strike came 12 hours after Johnson told Gilbert "the nation's interest and respect for our courts require your immediate compliance today with the district court order."

But the union credited Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz with helping wrap up no reprisal pledges from the final two railroads — the Central of Georgia and the Seaboard Air Line — finally ending the walkout. The firemen had refused to go back on any railroad until all eight made such pledges.

The other struck lines — in addition to the Illinois Central — were the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Grand Trunk Western, Boston & Maine and the Pennsylvania Railroad west of Harrisburg, Pa.

Holtzoff also scheduled court hearings today on the basic fight — the elimination of about 18,000 firemen's jobs the past two years under a federal arbitration award that expired at 12:01 a.m. last Thursday when the strike began.

Congress, in its first compulsory arbitration law in U.S. peacetime history, did not say what would happen when the arbitration ruling expired. The union contends it can demand that all jobs be restored, while the approximately 200 railroads involved claim they have the right to keep on slashing jobs.

The firemen won nothing in the strike that cost the railroads an estimated $5 million a day, idled some 200,000 workers on the railroads and other industries dependent on rail supply, and lost $320,000 a day in wages to the 8,000 striking firemen alone.

But a union spokesman said it proved the weakened union still was powerful enough to wield the powerful strike weapon and bring the vast railroad industry to a halt.

At one point, it was learned, there was a strong possibility of the strike spreading to other railroads, potentially touching off another national crisis like the one that led Congress to step in with the special arbitration law in 1963.

The possibility of multimillion-dollar damage suits against the union by the railroads remained.

The union, in the final strike settlement, dropped its demand that the eight railroads waive all such suits. Several railroads threatened to sue.

But the financial position of the union — with a total of about $5 million in cash and property assets — made it unlikely the railroads would be able to collect anything near their claimed losses from the strike.

day and loss of $1.5 million a day in revenue.

In Chicago, the Illinois Central said it would have commuter trains running for its 32,500 passengers on schedule today and that its operations should be in full swing by noon.

The Pennsylvania Railroad said pickets were withdrawn from the Penn Station in Pittsburgh late Sunday night and that freight schedules would be returned to normal by tonight. A spokesman said the first passenger train would move out by afternoon.

The strike jammed up industry and many companies were preparing massive layoffs and closings today if the strike continued.

Eastern Idaho potato spokesmen say they were hard hit by the strike and that plants in Idaho and Utah were planning to lay off employees. A Pocatello plant planned to lay off all its 450 employees if no settlement had been reached by today.

In the South, the poultry industry was hard hit by the shutdown.

The automobile industry opened all of its factories on schedule, after a weekend of juggling supplies between its plants.

Thousands of auto workers had been laid off or put on short shifts because the strike cut off shipments. An estimated 60,300 General Motors workers at 17 plants in Michigan, Missouri, Ohio and Kansas were affected in some way.

The strike caused a production loss of 20,000 units at GM.

The strike affected in varying degrees from 100 to 150 industries in Kansas City. The Kansas City postmaster planned to divert mail onto trucks and airplanes and said that mail was being delayed.

The postmaster said about three million Social Security checks arrived in Kansas City about this time of the month for distribution.

RETURNED TO BEAVER. Beaver County Sheriff John M. Hineman escorts Mrs. Mary Zlatovich of Ohioville to the Beaver County Jail at Beaver, where she was returned Friday from Dixmont State Hospital by order of Judge Ralph F. Scalera. The judge acted after the hospital said she has improved and her condition permitted her to leave the institution. Mrs. Zlatovich is charged with slaying four of her five children, 2 to 5 years, as they slept in the family home July 30, 1964. District Atty. Robert J. Masters said he will seek to have her examined by a commission of psychiatrists before making any move to dispose of the murder charges.

headed the raid on the Daily Double, where Mrs. Josephine R. Zabula of New Cumberland was arrested as the owner.

Troopers seized three full bottles of whisky, six open bottles, one 25-cent slot machine and one 10-cent slot machine.

Mrs. Zagula was charged with possession of gaming devices and with possession and sale of liquor and posted $500 for a hearing Saturday before Squire Bellanco.

FOGLIETTI was fined $100 and costs by Squire Bellanco on a gambling charge, $50 for possession of alcoholic liquor and $50 for sale of alcoholic liquor. He also signed a waiver authorizing destruction of the equipment and liquor.

been. "Mommy, I'm not afraid. Don't worry."

The tenacity with which the young woman has clung to life has baffled medical science. Attending physicians attribute the fact that she is still alive to the meticulous and devoted nursing she receives from her mother.

In a pink hospital bed topped with blue bows, she is kept as immaculate as a baby. Four times a day she is fed eight ounces of special formula through a nasal tube. Medication is also administered through the tube.

The Espositos have been told over and over by specialists that there is no hope for Elaine, that she can never recover from such extensive brain damage and can never be normal.

"But I always hoped they were wrong," said the mother, who has nursed her daughter through other serious illnesses.

Two years after the appendectomy she had further major abdominal surgery and was given a 100-to-one chance of pulling through. She has survived several bouts of pneumonia and an attack of measles.

About 16 years ago the girl's right lung collapsed and doctors said that a lower rib growing to the hip bone is causing her body to curve as she grows. Although she has gained a few pounds and added a few inches since childhood — she now weighs 85 — her hands and feet are still those of a 6-year-old.

When the Espositos realized that medical science could offer them no hope, they made a last desperate effort to rescue their daughter from her living death.

In 1956 they took her to the Grotto at Lourdes in southern France in search of a miracle. Today, their lives absorbed by the unrelenting figure in the pink bed with the blue bows, they are still waiting for the miracle.

Death Takes Stage Writer Crouse At 73

NEW YORK (AP) — Russell Crouse always was in the theater on opening night to send telegrams on the progress of their show to his writing partner, Howard Lindsay, at home.

The telegrams, filled with wit, often would come at 15-minute intervals to cheer up Lindsay, who feared watching the reaction of the first-night audience.

The telegrams mostly brought word of a box-office success because Lindsay and Crouse were Broadway's most famous show-writing team for 32 years.

Their partnership ended Sunday with the death of Crouse. He was 73. He died in St. Luke's Hospital of pneumonia and complications.

The one exception to Crouse's telegrams was "Life With Father," because Lindsay played the lead role of the father. Lindsay's wife, Dorothy Stickney, was the mother.

Lindsay was traveling in the South when told of his partner's death and made plans to return to the city.

The pair brought admiration and joy to millions of theatergoers from the time they first united their writing talents in 1934 with "Anything Goes" until their last show, the 1959 hit musical "Sound of Music."

Lindsay and Crouse collaborated on 14 shows and seven of them could be classed solid hits. They won the Pulitzer Prize in 1946 for "State of the Union," but "Life With Father" must be considered their biggest success. It ran on Broadway for more than seven years.

Other top shows were: "Red, Hot and Blue," in 1936, "Arsenic and Old Lace," in 1940, and "Call Me Madam" in 1950.

Crouse, a former newspaperman, was short and round-shouldered in comparison with the tall and erect Lindsay. Crouse, who wore a mustache and bore a facial resemblance to the late author Robert Benchley, typed the team's scripts on a battered old newspaper typewriter. Lindsay did the pacing while they kicked around story ideas.

Both men were perfectionists. They didn't begin to write until they had plotted out the action in every scene and acted out character parts until they knew them as well as they did their own families.

It often took them a year to write a play, but "Life With Father" was whipped out in 17 days from the book by Clarence Day.

When they reached their 25th year of collaboration with "Sound of Music" — they stayed together as a team after that, although no other shows were written — Crouse said: "We have been through hell and misery at times, but I can't think of anybody else's 25 years I'd trade it for."

Born in Findlay, Ohio, Crouse was the son of a newspaper publisher. He spent several years as a reporter on newspapers in Cincinnati, Kansas City and

Mrs. Robert Schondelmayer discussed the topic, "Missions in the Philippines," at the meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Christian Church Friday night in the Fellowship Hall.

Rev. and Mrs. Schondelmayer formerly were missionaries in the Philippines.

The group voted to send $20 to Charles and Roberta Selby, missionaries presently in that land.

A vocal solo was presented by Mrs. Hubert Myers. Business was conducted by Mrs. Harry Shaw, president.

Lunch was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Charles Haney and Mrs. Albert Barmer. An Easter theme was used in decorations.

The next meeting will be May 6 at the church.

Mrs. Sandy Hawthorne and Mrs. Barbara Torrence won prizes in canasta when the C.C. Club met Friday night at the home of Mrs. Karen Stipeck of Windsor Hts.

Miss Nancy Evans was a guest. Lunch was served by the hostess and Mrs. Ethel Shroades.

4 Get Superior Rating At Kent's Science Day

Four Columbiana County students were rated superior for projects shown Saturday at a District Science Day at Kent State University.

They are: William Navojosky and A. Marshall Lee, both of Leetonia High School; Thomas N. Vacar of Salem Bible College and John A. Graham of the Salem public schools.

The four automatically qualified to enter their exhibits in state Science Day finals April 16 at Columbus. More than 650 participated in the event at Kent.

Today, the diamond is the symbol of undying love, and by far the favored gem either alone, or in combination with other stones. If you would either like to start or add to a diamond collection (or wardrobe of useful fashion pieces) do drop in and see our selection soon.

The first woman in modern times to wear diamonds was Agnes Sorel who was associated with Charles VII of France. Mary of Burgundy received the first diamond "betrothal" ring in 1477 from Emperor Maximilian. He was also instructed to present a "gold ring and some costly jewels".

As the birthstone for April, the diamond signifies good luck (especially for those receiving it as a gift) and, according to the Hindus, has the power to heal. The word diamond derives from the Greek "adamas" meaning "unconquerable".

The world of gems is composed of many beautiful specimens of precious minerals in a rainbow of colors. Some gems exhibit startling and beautiful phenomena of nature. Others strike a highly personal, responsive chord in different personalities. Only the diamond seems to have what could be called "universal appeal".

Ohio Priest Tells About Struggle With Armed Man

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Catholic priest stood facing several hundred parishioners at mass and told them how he wrestled with a gunman in a confessional booth.

"I came out of the confessional (Saturday night) and saw a man and two boys seated in the church," the priest said. "I asked them if they wanted to go to confession."

"I told one of the boys to go. I suppose I should have recognized something was wrong because he (the man) looked troubled," Father Paulus said.

The priest heard one boy's confession, then started to leave the booth.

"The man ordered me to turn around," Father Paulus continued, "and when I did I saw he had a gun."

The priest said he spun and grabbed for the gun. It fired twice and both shots went wild.

"I think I fired it once and he once," Father Paulus said. "I beat him and that's why I'm standing here. There were six live cartridges left in the gun when I picked it up."

Police arrived and held the man in connection with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Police identified him as Charles Salaben, 61, of suburban Brook Park, a former parishioner of St. Stephen's.

Police said Salaben's wife told them her husband had been despondent over the death a year ago of his "favorite niece, whom he had helped raise."

The Irazu volcano in Costa Rica, which subsided in the fall of 1964 after being active for 18 months, is now a major tourist attraction.

Labor Withholds Support To Slack In West Virginia

CHARLESTON — Rep. John Slack, D-W. Va., had no comment Sunday on his failure to receive the political endorsement of the West Virginia Labor Federation, AFL-CIO.

For the first time in eight years, Slack was not on the list of primary election candidates favored by the 70,000-member labor group.

How To Hold FALSE TEETH More Firmly In Place

Do your false teeth annoy and embarrass by slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, laugh or talk? Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This alkaline (non-acid) powder holds false teeth more firmly and more comfortably. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at drug counters everywhere.

The federation's Committee on Political Education COPE said it declined to endorse Slack because he voted against repealing a section of the Taft-Hartley Act which would allow states to ban union shops.

Included among COPE's recommended candidates were Jennings Randolph, Rep. James Kee of Bluefield, Rep. Ken Hechler of Huntington and Rep. Harley Staggers of Keyser. All are Democrats.

The committee also endorsed Democrat William M. Kidd for the 1st District House of Representatives seat now held by Republican Arch A. Moore Jr., of Glen Dale.

U.N. Return Now Studied By Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Foreign Minister Adam Malik said today the new Indonesian government will return to the United Nations and seek to improve relations with the United States. The apparent object is aid for the foundering economy.

Malik told a news conference that Indonesia's return to the United Nations would "depend on many questions." He did not elaborate.

President Sukarno defiantly announced Jan. 7, 1965, that Indonesia was walking out of the world organization because Malaysia — which Sukarno has vowed to crush — had been elected to the Security Council.

Malik, who replaced pro-Peking Foreign Minister Subandrio last month, said the new government led by Lt. Gen. Suharto would return Indonesia to its traditional foreign policy. This was taken to mean a more neutral course of action.

Malik pointed to the country's near-bankrupt economy in emphasizing the need for improved foreign relations. He said in a reply to a question that relations with the United States have not always been good, but the government would do its best to improve them soon. "We will overcome difficulties existing now," he added.

The foreign minister said there would be no change in the country's attitude toward Red China, but added: "If Peking is not satisfied with our new policy, it is, of course, not our business."

He said Indonesia would continue its undeclared war with Malaysia but would "always be opened for peaceful settlement." Malik told newsmen Sunday Indonesia would reduce its military confrontation with Malaysia once peace talks began.

The United States now gives no economic aid to Indonesia. Washington began cutting off aid in the early 1960's as Sukarno swung toward Peking and became openly anti-American.

Knights Of Columbus Organization Formed

A new Knights of Columbus Council was formed at a meeting Sunday night at St. Ann's Catholic Church in East End.

Frank Arcuri was elected temporary chairman while James Canton was named temporary secretary. Fifteen attended.

A movie, "Noble Heritage," was screened. James McPeak of Wellsville, district deputy, outlined the history of order, its accomplishments and its aims.

Andrew Lynn, L. of C. insurance agent, discussed the insurance program of the order. Atty. John K. Mahaney explained the various aspects of the organization. Another meeting will be held April 17 at 7:30 p. m. in the church social rooms.

Pope Blesses Palms

Christians, Jews Begin Religious Observances

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Christians began their annual observance of Holy Week Sunday as Jews by coincidence were preparing for their annual celebration of Passover, commencing tonight.

Pope Paul VI blessed palm branches in the Sistine Chapel and said Mass Sunday before 10,000 persons in St. Peter's Basilica. The Palm Sunday rites marked the triumphal entry of Christ into Jerusalem five days before his Crucifixion.

The Pope distributed the palms to 21 cardinals, then put on a red cape and a bishop's miter for the procession through the basilica to the main altar for Mass.

"Today, as before," the pontiff said in a sermon, "the people are invited to choose between those who love Christ as the son of God and those who do not."

Addressing thousands of youths in the audience, he added: "You, what do you say? Your presence here is an answer. You have chosen Christ."

Emphasizing the importance of young persons in modern times, the Pope warned: "There is the danger that they will become superficial, that they will become skeptics, cynics who have no respect for any values and go through life like loafers and anarchists."

After the procession and Mass, which lasted two hours, the pontiff appeared at his apartment window to bless 20,000 persons standing in warm sunshine in St. Peter's Square.

Later Holy Week ceremonies in Christian churches will focus on the Holy Thursday observance of the Last Supper and on the mournful rites of Good Friday, recalling the Crucifixion. The theme of mourning will be succeeded next Sunday by Easter rejoicing.

In Jewish homes around the world, Passover week begins at sundown today. Tradition calls for the youngest member of the households to ask the ancient question: "Why is this night different from all others?"

The oldest man in the family replies with the story of Moses leading the Israelites from Egyptian bondage into the Promised Land.

At the ceremonial seder meal tonight, and throughout the week, Jews eat matzo, or unleavened bread, as a reminder that the fleeing Israelites had time only to prepare unleavened loaves sun-baked on rocks.

The holiday is called Passover because, in the final miracle in Egypt, God killed the oldest children of the Egyptians but passed over the homes of the Israelites.

The date of Passover is determined by the old Hebrew calendar. Its simultaneous observance with Holy Week will not take place again for two years.

Reds Confess Vital Role Of 'Scrounging'

MOSCOW (AP)—Now it's official—The only way to get anything in the Soviet Union is to scrounge for it. And one of the best places to scrounge is in the corridors of a Communist party congress.

Nobel Prize author Mikhail Sholokhov told delegates to the 23rd congress last week that he himself had become an expert scrounger in the Moscow ministries for everything from cowshed roofs to new schools.

Right at this congress, Sholokhov said amid laughter and applause, the delegates are spending as much time as they can lobbying.

"During the breaks," he said, "you go about hawk-eyed in the corridors seeking out ministers and thinking: 'What could I get out of him?'"

Everyone has known for years that you had to know somebody to get something in this country, but this was the highest public acknowledgement of it.

Sholokhov said that when farms in the Rostov region, where he lives, need tractors, for instance, it's necessary to send regional officials to Moscow to "get them by hook or crook."

Then he told of his own experiences.

"I am coming to a minister," he said, and quoted his own remarks:

"Comrade minister, please let me have 3,000 sheets of slate for collective farm cow and calf sheds."

"And he replies, 'Don't you understand that we have a planned economy and under the plan you have already received everything you are entitled to?' "And I tell him, 'I understand, but the cows, let alone the calves, do not understand why they must get wet in the rain in the autumn and be cold in winter. Roofing slate is not a matter of fashion or beauty, but an economic necessity.'"

Sunrise Service Due At Clarkson

the care of Police Chief and Mrs. Keister some eight months ago by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin after the boy was involved in a juvenile case.

He was taking care of the Keister's two young sons the night of the fire when the Keisters had gone to East Liverpool for a visit.

The boy sounded the fire siren and helped get the two Keister youngsters to safety from the flames which destroyed the Keister apartment on the third floor, the mayor's office, police office and music studio on the second floor and the display room of the Salineville Area Historical Society on the first floor.

THE YOUTH—whose father is dead and whose family originally came from the Wellsville area — was a student in seventh grade.

He told Fire Chief Tony Brandon, Melillo and others investigating the blaze the day after the fire he had heard a noise on the second floor and had summoned Deputy Marshal Gordon Sweeney.

Sweeney reported the music studio door was open when he arrived and some papers had been scattered. He told the youth to call him if he heard anyone in the building again.

Sweeney was called by the boy shortly after 10 p. m. and told the Village Hall was on fire.

DURING Saturday's questioning of the youth by Melillo and Fitch — in the presence of Keister — the boy described the opening in the wall into which the match had been tossed, followed by pieces of music paper, the blaze flared faster.

The boy said he had been in the partition then apparently ignited, the flames spreading to a nearby stand on which some paint cans were located, and these then caught fire and the music studio earlier in the day to sharpen pencils, using a key which was on a chain of Keister.

Why would the boy have done it? Authorities indicated he may have been dissatisfied with school or other matters or possibly concerned about fingerprints on the doorknob to the studio which might have linked him to the incident.

accidents investigated over the weekend by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said George L. Brown, 41, of Lisbon R. D. 1 was hurt when his pickup truck overturned on Route 164 a mile and four-tenths south of Route 518 Saturday at 7:15 p. m.

Brown was headed north on Route 164 when his truck dropped off the highway onto the right berm. In attempting to return to the highway, Brown lost control and the truck overturned, landing on its wheels, officers reported.

Brown was taken to Salem City Hospital by a son for treatment.

Cars operated by Robert Mays, 41, of Youngstown and Sandra Lee Posenel, 23, of West Point were involved in a collision Saturday at 2:25 p. m. on Route 30 eight-tenths of a mile north of Route 45.

Both drivers had slowed for traffic ahead. The woman said she was watching a pedestrian along the right side of the highway and her car hit the rear of the Mays vehicle.

Cars operated by Harry O. Guy, 33, of Leetonia R. D. 1 and John L. Hoey, of Columbiana were involved in the lone collision Sunday at 9:15 a. m. on Route 164 four-tenths of a mile north of Route 558.

Hoey was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way. He was southbound when he pulled off the side of the road to permit another car to pass him. He then made a left turn into a private drive and was hit in the rear by Guy, who was northbound.

Harvey Morrow

Harvey L. Morrow, 80, of 1839 Main St., Wellsville, a retired conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad Co., died Saturday at 5 p. m. at Osteopathic Hospital, where he had been a patient since March 26.

He was born in Bergholz May 14, 1885, son of the late Samuel Morrow and Rebecca Sainer Morrow. He resided in the Steubenville and New Cumberland areas for several years before going to Wellsville 50 years ago. He worked for the railroad company for 49 years, retiring in 1951. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. His wife, Mrs. Pearl Wilson Morrow, died July 7, 1963, and a son, David Morrow, died in March 1964.

He leaves a daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. Stacey of East Liverpool; four sons, Harry Morrow of Steubenville, Fred Morrow of East Liverpool R.D., Richard B. Morrow of East Liverpool, and William H. Morrow of Wellsville, 15 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the MacLean Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. James A. McCollam, pastor of the Yellow Creek United Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Springhill Cemetery in Wellsville.

Friends may call at the funeral home this afternoon and evening.

Robert Kiddey

Robert Taylor Kiddey, 71, of Glasgow, near Wellsville, a retired coal miner, died Saturday at 4 p. m. at his home following an apparent heart attack.

He was born Jan. 21, 1895, son of the late William S. Kiddey and Harriet V. Sheets Kiddey.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Pearl Thompson Kiddey, at home; a daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Wellington of 25th St. Heights, Wellsville; two sons, Robert T. Kiddey Jr. of Wellsville R.D. and William I. Kiddey of Lisbon R.D. 2; two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Clark of Salineville Rd. and Mrs. Harriet McPeak of Cleveland, 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. at the Haugh Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. James McCollam of the Yellow Creek United Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home today.

Ralph Baker

Ralph Baker, 62, of Carrollton R.D. 2 died Sunday evening at his home after an illness of two months.

He had been employed by the Puskari Mining Co. in Hopevale. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Cora Baker, at home; four sons, Harold Baker of Hopevale, Kenneth Baker of Harlem Springs, Ohio, Ralph Baker and Keith Baker, both of Richmond, Ohio; a daughter, Mrs. Ronald Gerren of Salem; two brothers, Cleveland Baker of Moundsville, W. Va., and Marion Baker of Mechanicsville; a sister, Mrs. Ronald Householder of Hammondsville and 17 grandchildren.

Services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Sweeney Funeral Home in Carrollton by the Rev. Eugene Pugh of the Harlem Springs Methodist Church. Burial will be in Harlem Springs.

Friends may call Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. at the funeral home.

Mrs. Ella Williams

Mrs. Ella Williams, 79, of Steubenville, wife of Forrest Williams, died Sunday at 2:05 a. m. at Ohio Valley Hospital in Steubenville, where she had been a patient three days.

Mrs. Williams was born in Salineville Dec. 12, 1886, daughter of the late Charles Schubert and Mary Salter Schubert. She attended the First Baptist Church of Steubenville.

She also leaves two daughters, Mrs. James (Winifred) Glover and Mrs. David (Louise) Forester, both of Steubenville; a son, Charles Williams of Wintersville, five sisters, Mrs. J. M. (Dora) Brashear and Miss Irma Schubert both of Cleveland, Mrs. Alvinia Buchagen, Mrs. Anna Smurthwaite, and Mrs. Frank (Elsie) Montgomery, and a brother, Charles Schubert, all of Steubenville, three grandchildren and one great-granddaughter. She was preceded in death by a son, Forrest Clyde Williams, and three sisters.

Services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. at the McClave Chapel in Steubenville by the Rev. John D. Crane. Burial will be in Woodland Cemetery in Salineville.

Friends may call at the McClave Funeral Home tonight from 7 to 9 and Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m.

Funeral Home in Wellsville by the Rev. K. F. Jackson. Burial will be in Springhill Cemetery in Wellsville.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p. m. Wednesday.

Crash

aged the left side and rear of a car owned by Joseph Corbisello, 926 McKinnon Ave. The impact caused Nellis to swerve left of center and lose control of his 1955 auto. The right front fender was sticking out to the side as a result of the initial crash.

Police identified the owners as Robert W. Slick, 110 Central Ave., 1959 sedan, left side; Clifford M. Tice of Glenmoor, 1965 auto, front and right side; Geraldine M. Lutton, 161 Vernia St., 1963, top and left side; Donald E. Cain, 211 Beechwood Ave., 1960 sedan, left side; Lily C. Melvin, 713 Orchard Grove Ave., 1962, top and left side; a 1966 owned by Sentry Leasing, Inc., and rented to National Biscuit Co., 718 Lincoln Ave., left side; Delbert R. Williams, 1925 Smithfield St., 1962 station wagon, left side and Sarah J. Waggoner, 937 Princeton Ave., 1963 car, left side.

Witnesses to the mishap were Charles R. Waggoner, 929 McKinnon Ave.; E. J. Gill, 931 McKinnon Ave.; Glenn Russell, 909 McKinnon Ave., and Charles J. Haugh, 822 Orchard Grove Ave., police said.

Patrolman Burson was joined in the investigation by Patrolmen W. A. Devon and Olin C. Smith.

A Canfield motorist was hurt slightly in an accident Sunday night which he blamed on poor visibility because of weather conditions and a lack of warning lights to mark a medial strip on the Freeway.

Joseph Moore, 50, told officers he was headed north at 40 miles an hour when his car straddled the median separating the northbound lanes from the turnoff lane for northbound freeway traffic and southbound Rt. 7 traffic.

Moore said he lost control of his auto and it struck the wall of the bridge. There was extensive damage to the front end of his 1965 sport coupe, police said.

He was treated at City Hospital for a laceration of the forehead. Police said James E. Logan of Painesville was a witness to the accident.

A mishap Saturday night at E. 6th and Walnut Sts. damaged the right fronts of a sedan driven by Grace G. Shaffer, 47, of Tallmadge and the parked 1964 auto of Robert O. Wolfe of Box 690, East Liverpool, police said. The woman told police she was making a turn but got too far over and struck the parked car. Mrs. George Callas, 420 Washington St., Newell, was a witness, police said.

An accident at 3:04 a. m. yesterday at Al's Atlantic Station at E. 3rd and Walnut Sts. involved a backing car operated by Chris Ben Allen, 17, of Fairview Rd., Chester, and a car owned by Robert L. Moffitt, 258 W. 9th St., who was halted at the gasoline pumps. Minor damage resulted, police said.

Prospects Are Bright, Ferro Meeting's Told

CLEVELAND — A 10 per cent increase in sales and earnings per share of $2.90 was forecast for 1966 by George E. Weber, Ferro Corp. financial vice president, during the annual stockholders' meeting here.

Weber said "results for the first two months of this year are comfortably ahead of 1965 and the first quarter is now estimated at about 76 cents per share compared to 52 cents last year for an increase of approximately 46 per cent. Sales are estimated to be 13 per cent ahead of the $23,481,000 registered in 1965. Providing the economy holds steady, for the full year 1966 sales are estimated at $111 million, and profit in the area of $2.90 per share."

Harry T. Marks, Ferro president, in describing the diversification program of the company said, "We now find that 67 per cent of our worldwide sales fall into the classification of chemicals and allied products. Our domestic sales to the plastic industry have increased from 28 per cent to 47 per cent in the last five years."

At the meeting a minor change in the company's charter was approved and the number of directors was established at 14, although only the present board of 12 was re-elected. The other two seats may be filled during this year.

Jack H. Dollinger has been named to a corporate vice presidency in addition to his present position as general manager of the Chemical Division of Ferro.

Dollinger, who joined Ferro in 1956, was made general manager of the division in 1958.

Clyde A. MacFie has been elected treasurer at Ferro.

Joining Ferro in 1956, he served as controller, international operations, until 1958 when he was named administrative assistant to the vice president, International Operations. In 1964 he became manager of the International Division in Cleveland.

THIS MEDIUM-SIZE three-bedroom ranch is designed for family fun as well as comfort and convenience. An easy-to-clean flagstone entrance foyer extends from the front door to a covered rear porch, making a bridge between the bedroom and daytime areas. The living and dining room occupy the entire front under a common cathedral ceiling. Family room and kitchen occupy the entire rear, also share a cathedral ceiling, and the fireplace on this side provides an informal note. The dressing room and shower, adjoining the lavatory, has an outside entrance—to serve the future swimming pool. The unusual master bedroom has a 12-foot wardrobe and sliding doors to the patio. Plan HA440P was designed by Samuel Paul, 89-30 161st St., Jamaica, N.Y. It contains 1,697 square feet of floor space.

Shellac Takes The Stage

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Anyone who ever has put his hands to the task of producing a smooth surface on a rough piece of wood is likely to have a favorite finishing material.
There's something about wood finishing that makes a person very partial to one particular type of finish, even though he or she may use other kinds at various times.

The "varnish man" is sure that no other finish can equal varnish for brilliance and durability. The "lacquer man" extols the fast-drying virtues, slickness and stain-resistant qualities of lacquer. In recent years, synthetics and penetrating sealers have been gaining advocates.

THROUGH all these discussions, the "shellac man" merely smiles. He knows that shellac is sometimes condemned because it develops a cloudy appearance when applied in a moisture-laden atmosphere, often turns white as a result of prolonged exposure to spilled water, and will deteriorate in its container after a period of time, necessitating buying only enough for a few months.

But he also knows that shellac is attractive, durable and easy to apply and that it has stood the test of time over many centuries as an excellent primer, sealer or finish coat.

The home craftsman can obtain a detailed table showing him how to thin shellac properly, depending on the "cut" of the material purchased.

The "cut" refers to the number of pounds of shellac gum dissolved in each gallon of pure alcohol. But our advice is to forget about all that, since most of the shellac you buy in your hardware or paint store will be a four or five-pound "cut" and the table can get confusing if you don't know exactly what result you are trying to achieve.

A BETTER method for the do-it-yourselfer is to thin shellac with an equal amount of denatured alcohol and use it that way. After a little experience with this versatile finishing material, he will learn for himself that on certain types of projects, he should use more than 50 per cent of alcohol, and on certain others less than 50 per cent. Incidentally, don't use any substitute thinner. A good quality denatured alcohol is best.

Finally, go back to the third paragraph and you can figure out for yourself the three "don'ts" in connection with shellac: don't apply it when the humidity is very high; don't use it on anything which is likely to be attacked by water that can't be wiped off instantly; and don't buy it in large quantities unless you expect to use it within a few months.

Consumption Of Steel In '66 May Top 1965

CLEVELAND (AP) — Steel consumption in 1966 is expected to top last year's record, and a first-half shipment record is also likely this year, Steel Magazine said today.

"Steel consumption this year is expected to range between 95 million and 100 million tons, easily topping last year's record of around 93 million," the metalworking weekly said.

Steel said the first-half tonnage movements from domestic mills could be larger than in any comparable period in which demand was not inflated by a strike threat.

Demand for steel is so strong, the magazine said, that some producers have reluctantly pressed marginal blast furnaces and finishing facilities into operation.

The metalworking magazine said steelmakers are leaning heavily on their own stocks of scrap and heavier supplies of hot metals to support the high furnace melts. This has resulted in extending the decline in the scrap market which began several years ago.

Steel's composite price on No. 1 heavy melting scrap fell $2.17 last week to $32.50 a ton.

Steel estimates that the industry poured 3,709,000 net tons last week, the same amount produced the week before.

"While most steel mills are running close to capacity, ingot production appears to be leveling out, at least temporarily, after climbing steadily since the start of the year," the magazine said.

Tips Offered Home Owner

Question: We bought a very old house several months ago. The basement floor is made of concrete, but it is extremely rough. Somebody apparently patched up a dozen or more places over the years, but never bothered to smooth the surface.

I now would like to make two rooms in the basement and plan on using resilient floor tiles, probably asphalt or vinyl asbestos, since I have been told that either of these will be all right on a concrete floor. However, I think it would be an impossible job to try to get the floor smooth, even with one of those large floor sanders. What do you suggest?

Answer: First, you are correct about the use of asphalt or vinyl asbestos tile on concrete, but be sure you tell the dealer where it is being installed to be sure he gives you the type of adhesive for use on concrete below grade.

Secondly, a good floor sander, fitted with the proper abrasive paper, probably would smooth the floor, but you might find it a rugged job. There are a number of other possibilities, among them the use of screeds — or large lengths of wood, such as 2 by 4's — laid on the concrete in a bed of special adhesive.

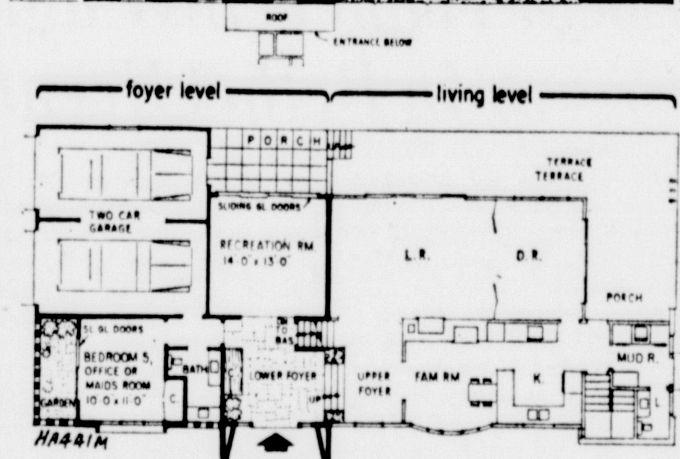

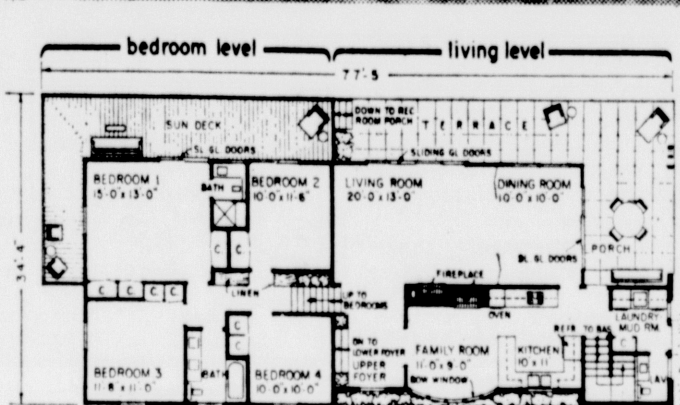

Plywood or hardboard underlayment is then attached to the screeds with the tiles over that. It might be a bit easier to use a mastic type of underlayment, which is spread on the concrete to form a level base for the tile.

Frankly, you don't face an easy job no matter what your choice. You might consider having that part of the task done professionally, leaving the actual installation of the tile to yourself.

Drops Last Anchor

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP) — James Tanfield's last ship has come in. After 129,601 trips across Upper New York Bay, Tanfield has retired as captain of the ferryboat Elizabeth, ending 43 years with the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The soybean has an important place in the U.S. agricultural picture, with an estimated 843 million bushels produced last year. This represents a cash value of slightly more than $2 billion to the American farmer.

A WELL-PROPORTIONED exterior combines with judicious choice of materials to lend a conservative rich effect to this contemporary side-to-side split level. Both sides are of standard frame construction but hipped roofs with a pierced stone wall appears to lower the higher side. The entrance portal, abutted by splayed stone walls, is topped by a partial opened trellis which permits light to enter foyer. Plan HA 441M was designed by Rudolph A. Matern, 90-04 161st St., Jamaica, N. Y. 11432. It contains 1,736 square feet of space at the living and bedroom level.

New Test Seeks To Evaluate Prisoner's 'Crime Potential'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Ohio State University professor is developing another test, but anyone who might be asked to take it should be careful to score as low as possible.

The test, being devised by criminologist Walter C. Reckless, is a yardstick that would measure a lawbreaker's likelihood of "going straight."

And, the test is scored on a scale ranging from a low of 24 up to 120 for the worst cases.

According to Reckless, a low index would indicate, for example, that a prisoner should be more adaptable to parole than another with a high index. A parole officer, using the new method, could sort out his high index parolees, and pay more attention to them, according to Reckless.

"Development of a uniform index of criminality will eliminate or lessen the need of trying to determine a prisoner's crime potential by studying criminal records," Reckless said.

Reckless added that the index being developed by his team is determined by going back to the existing law and records and finding out the prisoner's attitude toward law and authority.

"This gives us a fair idea of his potential for crime," he explained.

He said discovering the attitude of the offender was not the same as the record of arrests, but the potential back of criminal behavior — "something we can get a measure of like blood count or sugar level."

"When a person has a certain criminality level, he's likely to be in trouble," he said.

Reckless said the index is computed for reactions to a list of 24 statements of attitude toward law, legal institutions and law enforcement officials. Reactions are sought to such statements as:

"It is more wrong to get caught than it is to steal." "Law

Pop, Op Wallpaper Helps To Enliven Room

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Off-beat designs, like dizzying op art patterns, Mondrian patterns and pop art, now are available in easy-to-use pre-pasted wallpaper, and should intrigue the youth set.

You can have fun with it even if you don't want to use it on whole walls or whole rooms. It is great for jazzing up a screen or putting new life in an old door.

An exciting way of breaking the static look of a long hallway full of doors is to decorate the doors with op art wallpaper. The visual gymnastics will provide a conversational gimmick, but that shouldn't be the only reward for your efforts. They'll also lift dull areas out of a rut.

Do-it-yourself screens often do not come off properly because it is difficult to find a pattern that will go with everything. That's why the architectural theme of Mondrian is one good answer.

A Mondrian screen can serve as a room divider in a contemporary or very modern room, and should certainly be at home in teen-agers' bairnicks, now that art has become one of their major interests.

Some of us may not understand or appreciate all the new art forms, but we may like to try something akin to it.

Comics and other bits can be cut and framed for a "pop" look that won't break the bank, but will look smashing to the disco set.

To use these pre-pasted wallpapers, simply size them to an area, cut to fit, then wet and apply. They can be smoothed out easily with the back of a brush.

Sharon Entry Wins Jr. Tourney

Mercer Star Picked MVP In 19th Event

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor
Corner Tavern of Sharon, became one of the smallest teams ever to win the Nonpareil Club Junior Basketball Tournament by outgunning Silver Fox of Youngstown, 69-62 in the championship battle Saturday night at Memorial Auditorium.

The Sharon five became the 19th champion of the three-day event which opened with 12 teams.

MADE UP of Farrell High and Mercer High talent, the new champs gained the final game by disposing of next year's Farrell High team, 73-69 in the semi-finals while Silver Fox whipped Eason's Insurance, 83-66 in what was a mild surprise.

In the championship game, Silver Fox led for almost three quarters until Mercer's Bill Snodgrass, voted the tourney's most valuable player, and Matlocks, a 5-10 guard, poured in some valuable goals in the third period to lead the Corner Tavern rally and go into a 49-48 lead at the end of the quarter.

SNODGRASS tossed in 11 points in the third quarter then Matlocks came on to score eight points in the final period to keep the Sharon entry out in front.

Snodgrass, an all-state guard, finished with 22 points to lead all scorers in the final game and slightly overshadowed the brilliant scoring of Bill Gullick of Silver Fox who wound up with 21.

SILVER Fox led at halftime by a 31-24 margin.

Behind Snodgrass was Matlocks with 16 points while Earl Chapman added 12.

In the semi-final game, Leander Flint flipped in 19 points and Chapman added 15 to lead the Corner five. Rich Chambers paced Farrell with a 17 point performance as the losers made a strong comeback late in the game before running out of time.

GULLICK'S 22 markers and a 20-point game by Gromada led Silver Fox in its victory over Eason's Insurance. Silver Fox, which added strength to its lineup Saturday after barely getting through the opening round games, took a 41-22 halftime lead which Eason's could never overcome.

Chuck Winters of the Potter variety paced Eason's with 17 points in the semi-final game while Mark LaPort of Springfield Local added 10.

SNODGRASS was voted most valuable to lead a 10-man all-tournament team. Others named included CChapman, Flint and Bill Samuels of Corner Tavern, Don Graham, Gullick, Homer Warren and Gromada of Silver Fox, Denny Steinbeck of Lease Drug.

Gullick was the tourney's high-point man with 72 while Wells'ville's Harry Thornton won the foul shooting trophy connecting on 9 of 12.

Trophies were presented following the championship game by Dick Wolf, Nonpareil Club president and Don Hoyt, vice-president.

The natural gas industry in the U.S. got its start in 1816, when the first gas franchise was issued to the Gas Light Co. of Baltimore, Md.

Roseboro Takes Swing At Marichal But Bat Meets Ball For Home Run

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The last time they tangled, Juan Marichal handled the bat and John Roseboro did the catching. This time Roseboro swung on Marichal.

And there wasn't even a lawsuit afterwards.

Roseboro walloped a three-run inside-the-park homer Sunday in his first confrontation with Marichal since the bat-swinging incident last August that left the Los Angeles catcher with a cut scalp and the San Francisco pitcher with a $1,750 fine and an eight-day suspension.

Roseboro's shot helped the Dodgers to an 8-4 victory over the Giants that was overshadowed by the meeting between him and Marichal.

"He said nothing to me and I said nothing to him," Roseboro said later. "I knew there would be no trouble. The only thing I was worried about was that he would make some kind of overture. If he had, I would have had to turn him down."

San Francisco General Manager Chub Feeney said he had approached Dodger General Manager Buzz Bavasi before the game with an offer from Marichal to shake with Roseboro. The Dodger catcher declined.

Roseboro said his $110,000 lawsuit against Marichal and the Giants is still pending. "He has kept his distance," Roseboro said, "and that's the way I want it."

There were two men on in the second inning when Roseboro laced a 2-2 Marichal pitch past Giant right fielder Jesus Alou and circled the bases for his home run. He fled out the next time he faced the Giant hurler.

Elsewhere Sunday, Atlanta shaded Cincinnati 2-1 in 11 innings, the Chicago White Sox shut out Houston 6-0, Kansas City walloped the New York Mets 10-2, the New York Yankees whipped Philadelphia 8-3, Washington whacked Pittsburgh 12-3, Minnesota nipped St. Louis 2-1, the Chicago Cubs edged California 8-7 and Boston defeated Detroit 6-4.

Cleveland downed Portland of the Pacific Coast League 9-7 and Baltimore took Miami of the Florida State League 8-5 in other games.

Atlanta snapped a four-game losing streak when Lee Thomas 11th inning against the Reds.

Loser Jack Baldschun had intentionally walked Hank Aaron after yielding singles to Felipe Alou and Ed Matthews. Then Thomas walked, forcing Alou across the plate.

John Buzhardt and Eddie Fisher combined for the White Sox' three-hit shutout of the Astros.

Tommie Agee's two-run double highlighted Chicago's four-run seventh inning.

Kansas City rocked three Met pitchers for 14 hits and whacked New York. Dick Green belted two home runs and Rollie Sheldon went seven innings for the Athletics.

Tom Tresh, Cleve Bover and Bobby Richardson all homered and rookie Fritz Peterson worked seven strong innings as the Yankees whipped Philadelphia. New York scored seven runs in the first two innings against Chris Short.

Frank Howard and Don Lock homered for Washington as the Senators overcame a 17-hit Pittsburgh attack that included two homers by Roberto Clemente to beat the Pirates. Maty Alou and Dave Roberts had three hits apiece for the losers.

Minnesota won its sixth straight by scoring two runs in the first inning and then hanging on against the Cardinals. Camilo Pascual, Jim Kaat and Al Worthington split the pitching for the Twins.

The Cubs scored five unearned runs on five California errors and swept past the Angels with Larry Jackson pitching five strong innings.

Tony Conigliaro's eighth homer of the spring powered the Red Sox over the Tigers. George Scott also homered for Boston while George Thomas connected for Detroit.

Relief pitcher Bob Heffner slammed a three-run homer that helped Cleveland overcome Portland. Joe Azcue and Max Alvis had three hits apiece for the Indians.

Sam Bowens whacked three hits including a three-run homer and stole two bases as Baltimore whipped its Miami farm club. Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson also homered for the Orioles and Powell had three hits.

Potter Nine Drops Opener In 4-1 Loss At Wellsburg

The East Liverpool Potters opened their 1966 baseball season by facing a Wellsburg team which had four straight victories under its belt and dropped a 4-1 decision Saturday in the West Virginia city.

Wellsburg, which compiled its fifth straight verdict, didn't waste anytime in jumping in front 2-0 in the first inning by collecting a triple, double and single off Potter starter Len Walker.

In the second inning, the Tiggers managed two more runs off Walker.

From the second inning on,

Walker and righthander Tom Moore blanked the West Virginians but the Potters could only account for one run.

The Potters collected five hits with the lone run coming in the fourth inning when Carl Natalina walked, stole second and scored on a throwing error by the Wellsburg shortstop.

Coach Jim Potts' forces missed a scoring opportunity in the first inning when Emery Brewer singled and centerfielder Ed Golden smacked a double but Brewer was cut down at the plate.

In the seventh inning the Potters loaded the bases on a single and two errors but the Blue and White failed to score.

Ashbrook was the winning pitcher and also led Wellsburg at the plate with a triple and double.

Dan Smith, the Potters left-fielder was the only member of the ELHS lineup to collect two hits.

The Potters will be looking for their first victory Tuesday at Midland.

Local Team Wins Cage Crown In Bethel Event

The East Liverpool Westgate team captured the championship of the Bethel (Pa.) tournament Saturday afternoon by overwhelming Woodlawn of Muncie, 39-25.

After winning the Bethel crown, the local entry won its opening game in the Braddock Salvation Army tournament Saturday night with a 31-25 win over St. Catherine but was "whistled out" of the Swissvale tournament in a 46-41 loss to the host St. Anselm's team Sunday night.

In the championship game at Bethel, Joe March pitched in 13 points and Jack Melvin 10 to lead the Westgate attack. East Liverpool held a 20-11 halftime margin and increased it to 30-16 at the end of three quarters.

Melvin's 15 points paced the win at Braddock while March added eight points.

In the loss at Swissvale, the East Liverpool entry apparently was a victim of the officials' whistle. The locals battled to a 41-41 tie at the end of regulation time but were outscored, 5-1, in the overtime period.

East Liverpool showed a 17-10 edge in field goals but St. Anselm's shot 44 fouls and made 26 including 18 in the last quarter. East Liverpool only shot 15 fouls and made seven.

Officials took three baskets away from the local team in the last minute and a half for various violations and five East Liverpool players fouled out of the game.

Don Smith, coach of the local team, reported that one referee working the game, punched an East Liverpool player immediately following the game.

Steelers Open Season Against Giants Sept. 11

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The 1966 schedule announced today by the Pittsburgh Steelers shows that new head coach Bill Austin will break in on his job against his former teammates, the New York Giants.

The Steelers are scheduled to open the season against the Giants in Pitt Stadium on Sept. 11. Austin broke into the National Football League with the Giants in 1949 and played several seasons as an offensive guard.

The Steelers play only one team from the league's western division—the Detroit Lions at Pitt Stadium on Sept. 18.

The team's lone night game is the annual affair in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium against the Browns, scheduled for Oct. 8.

The Steelers play 14 games this year, seven at home and seven away.

76ers Trowned 115-96

Boston Captures Playoff Opener; Lakers Stand 2-0

By The Associated Press
The Boston Celtics, striving to regain lost prestige, and the Los Angeles Lakers, seeking a never attained honor, hold the upper hand in the drive for final berths in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Boston, dethroned by the Philadelphia 76ers as Eastern Division regular season king for the first time in 10 years, opened the best-of-seven Eastern final series with a 115-96 trouncing of the 76ers at Philadelphia Sunday.

The Lakers, never a playoff champion since moving from Minneapolis, put themselves in a commanding 2-0 lead in the Western final by defeating the St. Louis Hawks 125-116.

Boston, who had to come from behind to win a best-of-five semifinal with Cincinnati, has things much its own way against the 76ers who showed signs of staleness. It was Philadelphia's first game since the regular season ended.

The Celtics were led by an excellent defense and the shooting of Sam Jones, who scored 29 points, and John Havlicek, who got 22. Wilt Chamberlain led the 76ers with 25 points and 32 rebounds.

Elgin Baylor set a career playoff field goal record of 819 by pumping in 17 for the Lakers as he led the way with 42 points.

The old mark of 818 was set by Tommy Heinsohn of Boston. Zemo Beatty scored 36 points for the Hawks.

Philadelphia meets the Celtics in Boston Wednesday, while the western series moves to St. Louis for the first time the same night.

Midland Now In Section 6

3 Area Schools Affected By Changes In WPIAL

Midland, Western Beaver and South Side have been affected by the sweeping changes after the WPIAL announced revisions of sections in basketball.

Midland will no longer compete in the Class A Section 8 but has been moved into the Class A Section 6. The Section will be made up of Beaver, Hopewell, Monaca, New Brighton, Freedom, Rochester and Seneca.

Last season Midland competed in Section 8 which included Western Beaver, Hopewell, Brighton.

Western Beaver has been reclassified and will compete in Class B next season. The Beavers will compete in Section 17-B made up of South Side, Carnegie, Center, Crafton, and West Allegheny.

South Side was in Section 19-B last season but will be in Section 17.

Only one of the 10 sections in Class A remained unchanged and that was Section 3-A which includes Aliquippa, Ambridge, Beaver Falls, Butler, Ellwood City, Farrell, New Castle and Sharon.

Twenty one teams dropped from Class A to Class B. There are now 74 Class A schools and 73 in Class B.

One Expert Is Picking Sanders To Win Masters

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Confidence that is growing with his string of successes, plus an excellent putter, have made Doug Sanders the choice of at least one highly qualified expert to win the Masters Golf Tournament.

He is going good and has confidence," said Al Bessellink and named Sanders as the man most likely to succeed in the Masters, opening Thursday in Augusta, Ga.

Sanders racked up his second straight tournament victory and third of the season Sunday when he dropped in a five-foot putt and beat Tom Weiskopf on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff for the title in the Greater Greensboro Open.

Sanders, 32, from Ojai, Calif., said it would take confidence, stamina and a strong game to win the Masters.

"Needless to say, I have the confidence," he added after picking up his $20,000 check. The triumph followed his victory at Jacksonville, Fla. Earlier this season he won the Bob Hope tourney.

Arnold Palmer's concern was with his game. Arnie closed with a 69, but finished well back at 279.

"I think my game could be good, but it's not right now," Palmer said. "I'm not confident enough with the putter and my wedge play is so bad I don't like to take it out of my bag. I'm going to do a lot of work in the next three days."

Sanders and Weiskopf, 23, of Bedford, Ohio, shot one-under par 70s to finish in a tie with a 72-hole total of 276, eight under par.

Each parred the 15th, where the playoff began. On the par three 225-yard 16th, Weiskopf missed the green, chipped up short and missed his putt. Sanders trapped his shot, blasted out and sank it for a par.

Weiskopf picked up $12,000, his biggest check since turning pro in 1964. The total purse was $100,000.

Miller Barber and Dave Ragan tied for third with 277 and won $6,250 each. Barber finished with a six-under par 65, the day's lowest round. He had seven birdies and one bogey. Ragan closed with a 70.

Second Griddle From Alabama Dies Of Injury

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Jim Weed, a 15-year-old football player at Berry High School died Sunday night, three days after he collapsed on the practice field.

It was the second death resulting from spring football practice in the Birmingham area. Clifton (Randy) Baker, 15, died of a broken neck suffered at Banks High Feb. 24.

Doctors said Weed apparently suffered a mild concussion during practice last Monday, but showed no symptoms of serious injury and the trouble probably could not have been spotted at the time.

Weed complained of a headache Thursday and collapsed on the sidelines.

Packers, Colts To Open Expanded Card Of NFL

NFL SCHEDULE

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay's champion Packers and the Baltimore Colts will clash on Sept. 18, opening the expanded National Football League's expanded 1966 schedule announced today.

The Saturday night game at Milwaukee kicks off the 47th season for the NFL, which goes from 14 teams to 15 with the addition of Atlanta's Falcons, lengthens its schedule from 14 weeks to 15, and increases its number of games from 98 to 105.

The regular season ends Dec. 18, with the title playoff set for Jan. 1 at the Eastern championship park.

Pete Rozelle, the league's commissioner, predicts the added team and the new stadium in St. Louis will boost NFL attendance past the 5-million mark. A record 4,364,021 paid to see NFL games last year.

York at Pittsburgh and Philadelphia at St. Louis.

One team will draw a bye each week, with the first going to Dallas. The Cowboys open the following Sunday, at home against New York, and on the same afternoon the Browns and Packers will play at Cleveland.

The Packers-Browns game is one of seven inter-division games, cut from 14 due to expansion. Atlanta will be a swing team, playing each of the 14 other clubs.

CBS will again televise Sunday games on the club's regional networks and in addition will carry six regular season national telecasts.

Seek Poverty HelpJobless Negroes Camp In Park Near President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Homeless and jobless Mississippi Negroes camped today in four tents in a park across the street from the White House to dramatize their plea for $1.3 million in antipoverty funds.

"We're going to keep this up until we receive some assurance from the President that we don't have to spend another winter in our tents in Mississippi," said Frank Smith, the group's leader.

The 90 Negroes — residents of tent cities near Greenville and Greenwood — took turns squatting and sleeping in the tents. Mostly ex-farmhands and plantation workers, they had come to Washington Thursday in hopes of speeding up requests for funds for do-it-yourself job training and home construction projects.

Sunday they turned a march and prayer vigil into a tent-in-alongside four petunia beds on the neatly trimmed grass of Lafayette Park, a square that has become a traditional gathering place for White House protest marches and pickets.

"After the march, the people just wanted to stay here," Smith said.

"We put up the tents," he said in an interview inside a tent, "because we want to present our case for the fund requests we have before OEO (the Office of Economic Opportunity). We're dissatisfied with the response we got from them."

Smith said he had sent a telegram to the President Sunday outlining comment.

As Smith spoke, five sleeping youngsters squirmed and wriggled inside sleeping bags. Outside, roughly dressed men talked. Behind them gleamed the Washington Monument.

"Hope we won't be here too long," Smith said. "We want to go home and start building homes." He said the tents were rented for four days — for $65 — from a Washington firm.

"We got to have a home," said camper John H. Sylvester, who appears older than his 43. "We're tired of living in tents." Sylvester said he went on strike last year on a plantation where he was earning $5 a day. His wife earned $3 daily. Their three children were asleep in one of the tents, he said.

Thursday the campers described their living conditions and pleaded their case for antipoverty funds before the House Committee on Education and Labor, headed by Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. Powell arranged a meeting with OEO officials and promised to "put pressure on the executive branch."

But an OEO spokesman said Sunday the group, which had offered three proposals for antipoverty grants, had little chance of getting the money because of inadequate mortgage arrangements and the lack of available property on which to build homes.

U.S. Park police kept a close watch on the campers but made no arrests. "It's technically illegal," said Lt. R. R. Kerzoy, "but rather than having it explode we'll let them stay where they are."

Mishap Injures Man And Woman

A McKees Rocks woman was admitted to City Hospital and a Pittsburgh man was treated and released early this morning following a one-car accident a mile west of Hillendale on Route 30.

Miss Irene Nicholson of McKees Rocks, a passenger in an auto driven by Donald Campbell of Pittsburgh, was listed in "fairly good" condition with a fractured ankle.

Campbell suffered contusions of the abdomen and lacerations of the lips.

The accident happened at 12:05, when Campbell, driving east, lost control of the auto veered off the right side of the highway and struck a utility pole.

Pennsylvania State Police at Carnegie Barracks said the accident still is under investigation. Campbell's auto was reported a total loss.

Rifle Mishap Wounds Wellsville Area Youth

A 17-year-old Wellsville area youth was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital with a gunshot wound of the left leg suffered when he was cleaning a rifle at home Sunday night.

Kerry W. Penn, son of Donald Penn of 1200 Mick Rd., was cleaning a .22 rifle when it discharged and struck him in the lower left leg. He was admitted to the hospital Sunday at 10:15 p.m.

Deputy Sheriff David Brothers, who investigated, said the weapon discharged when Penn opened the bolt. The bullet hit him in the lower left leg, he said.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: As if my wife and I don't have enough arguments about how much work she does and how little she gets in return, you had to print that letter from some nutty home economics teacher who figured out that the average housewife is worth $8,000 a year on today's labor market.

I'm willing to bet that ours was only one of a million fights you caused across the nation.

Has it ever occurred to you that for $8,000 a year a man could live in a beautiful apartment with maid service and not have to put up with a nagging broad, not to mention her miserable mother?

The American housewife has been glorified to the point where she thinks she's right up there with the vice president of General Motors. You make less sense all the time. I think you're getting rocks in your head, Granny. — NO FAN OF YOURS.

One Man's Wife

Dear Ann Landers: How do you know what my wife is worth as a housekeeper? Have you ever been inside our home?

I'd invite you over for a look but I don't think you could get through the front door. Junk is piled to the ceiling — unopened barrels and crates she hasn't gotten to yet. (We moved into this place last November.) The Christmas tree is still up. She says she'll take it down when she has a free afternoon.

I can't say much about my wife's cooking because she hasn't cooked a meal for so long I can't remember it. The last time she did the laundry was in 1956 when she washed my wallet which was in the pocket of my work pants. The wallet contained my pay check and every important card and piece of paper I owned.

You may know a lot, Ann Landers, but you don't know what goes on in our house. So please don't try to tell a man what his wife is worth unless you have met her. — UP TO HERE.

Super Service

Dear Ann: It's about time you came through for us women for a change. I've been reading your column for years and you are so prejudiced in favor of men that I'm sure those pictures that run with your column are phony and that you are really a man yourself.

That estimate of $8,000 was low. I perform all the duties mentioned in the teacher's letter plus the following:

I hang wallpaper, repair furniture, serve as my husband's barber, psychiatrist and financial adviser. I interpret his dreams and read his horoscope. I referee the fights he has with his relatives.

But the money is only part of it. Most men have such lousy dispositions they couldn't hire help to stay with them. Marriage is the only answer. — SWAMPFIRE.

Beyond His Means

Dear Ann: I just read where some so-called authority has decided a housewife is worth $150 a week. I'm a married man who earns only $135 a week. This means I cannot afford to keep this wonderful woman who sleeps until noon and has scorched every shirt I ever owned.

Thank you for making me realize that I don't deserve her. I'm kicking her out tomorrow. — STANLEY GREAT-HEART.

Dear No Fan, Up to Here, Swampfire and Stanley: You've provided me with a lulu of a column and I gave you a chance to sound off — so everybody's happy.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Geauga County Gets 1st Daily Newspaper

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—The first daily newspaper in Geauga County, the Geauga Times Leader, starts publishing today. The Times Leader, which dates back to 1833, formerly was published twice weekly.

The afternoon newspaper, published by the Rowley Publications, will be issued Monday through Saturday. The editor is James Byrne Jr., former member of the old Cleveland News staff.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove an especially stubborn "press-on" type of knob or dial from the radio or television set?

A.—Loop a twisted scrap of strong soft cloth behind the knob, gripping the loose ends firmly in your fingers. Press against the cabinet front with your thumb tips, at the same time pulling firmly on the cloth. The knob will usually work free.

Q.—How can I, when painting with enamel, cause it to flow on more easily and smoothly?

A.—Try placing your container of enamel in a pan of hot water for a while prior to beginning your job.

Q.—How can I easily remove ink stains from my fingers?

A.—Dip a nailbrush or old toothbrush into vinegar, then into salt, and scrub the stains away.

Q.—How can I remove lead pencil stains from materials?

A.—Work glycerin or a heavy detergent solution into the stains with a blunt-edged instrument, then apply a few drops of ammonia, and gently work into the stains. As the stains dissolve, flush them out with warm water.

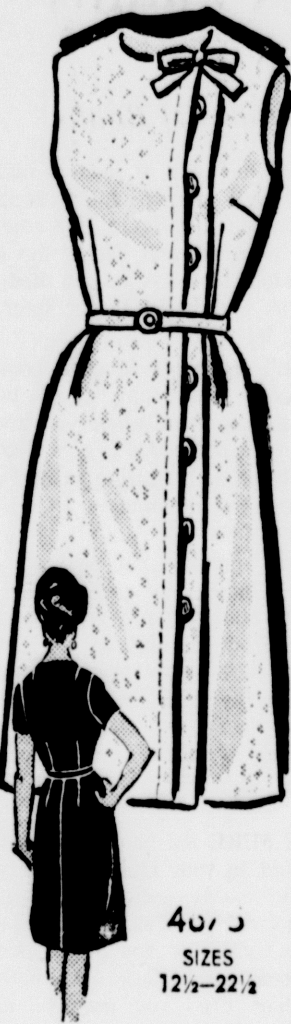

Q.—How should oil paintings be cleaned?

A.—Best, if these are very valuable painting, is a professional job. However, if you want to try it yourself, wash them with warm milk and water, rubbing gently and carefully, and then drying without rinsing.

Q.—What can I do about scorch stains on linens?

A.—Sometimes the rubbing of a cut onion over these stains will solve this little problem. Follow this by soaking the linen in cold water, and then laundering.

Rubber Workers OK Seiberling Contract

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—United Rubber Workers Local 18 has ratified a contract with Seiberling Tire & Rubber Co., ending a 75-day strike. Union and management officials now must sign the contract.

Henry Gilliam, president of the 1,000-member local said the 18-month contract will give workers a 38-cent-an-hour increase in wages and benefits, with another nine-cent increase next year.

Heart Attack Claims Retirement Unit Head

CLEVELAND (AP)—Alfred B. Kennish, 59, suffered a fatal heart attack here Saturday, the second death of a president of the Ohio School Employees Retirement Board in five months.

He had moved up from the vice presidency after Miss Esther F. Healy was killed in a Cincinnati airliner crash Nov. 8.

He is survived by his widow and several brothers and sisters. Services will be in Lakewood on Tuesday.

FBI Aids Probe In Tampering Of Wrecked Engine

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP)—An investigation is under way at the Pennsylvania Railroad's nearby Conemaugh yard to determine the cause of a runaway diesel locomotive that dropped off a turntable into an engine house pit.

A PRR superintendent, W.D. Murphy of Altoona, said "no outsider" caused the crash, adding that the engine could only have been started by an experienced engineman or fireman.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was picketing the yard when the incident occurred Saturday.

J.W. Jennings, an international vice president, said there was no connection between the incident and his union's strike against the PRR.

The railroad, which estimated damage at $40,000, said a preliminary investigation revealed the engine had been tampered with. The FBI, which is assisting in the investigation, had no comment.

The engine ran in reverse for about 2,000 feet, hit the turntable and dropped into the pit.

Most of the estimated 24,000 inhabitants of the Spanish Sahara are nomadic and roam freely. There are about 5,300 settled residents.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

The Return Of Patrick Macnee

"Your 'Man From U.N.C.L.E.' gave us a beating at first, but then it turned out to be rather shallow, didn't it, so now we're back on top. I do like your 'Fugitive,' though, and it's very high in England," comments actor Patrick Macnee, the very urbane English type who likes to refer to himself as "the oldest leading man on TV." He's 44.

Macnee is over here barnstorming our key cities to plug the British-produced TV series, "The Avengers," in which he co-stars with Diana Rigg and which ABC bought to replace Ben Casey.

"THE AVENGERS" has been running successfully on the commercial "telly" in England since 1961 except, as Macnee says, for a short spell when our "Man From U.N.C.L.E." out-rated it.

"You know, of course, I've been to Hollywood before. Lived here, as a matter of fact, from 1955 until nearly 1960. Had a nice little place on the beach at Topanga, then one day a friend of mine said, 'Pat, you can't waste away your life on this beach,' so I went back to England and became associate producer on the Churchill TV series, 'Associate'—that's a lovely word, isn't it?"

ACT-chewy, as actor-types are fond of saying, Macnee emigrated to Canada in 1952, then to New York City and after that came to Hollywood for a role in MGM's "Les Girls." The next four years he worked as the English-type for such TV series as "Rawhide," etc., and combed the beach at Topanga.

"I MADE more money with bit parts here than I could make with a series in England, but I'm glad I went back," says Macnee, who dresses so nattily it's hard to believe he ever considered being a California beach bum.

As for "The Avengers," he candidly opines that he doesn't have much hope for it.

"I'm not sure the British humor in it will be understood in America," he says. Macnee seemed truly surprised to learn we have a long tradition of believing that the British have no sense of humor.

"You have too much TV here," he adds. "We have no TV from 6 in the morning until noon, and that seems to me to be your real 'wasteland.' Why must people eat in front of it. All you can get is a dirty shirt."

"I SUPPOSE there are some compensatory features about it, however. When I was here before I do recall a girl friend I didn't particularly like, and I turned on the TV so that I didn't have to talk to her."

Another disappointment for Macnee is the lack of hard enough questions by newsmen on TV panels interviewing politicians here. He can't understand why we let our politicians off so easily, and thinks it makes for poor viewing besides.

"Our prime minister handles himself wonderfully on TV, and he is thrown good rough questions," Macnee points out. "I think it's his ability on TV which has made him one of our best ministers."

"ALTHOUGH the British TV interests, both commercial and the BBC, constantly are fighting to be more and more prodigious, Macnee reverently hopes such ambition won't result in the overabundance of TV beamed at Americans.

"I mean nobody can be good that often. Just look at your Danny Kaye, who, incidentally, was a hero in England before he went on TV every week. Really, it's too bad."

No matter what happens to "The Avengers" here on ABC, Macnee and Miss Rigg will begin filming another 26 episodes in England next July, and in color, despite the fact neither English nor the 14 other countries where the series is seen are equipped for color.

"I IMAGINE they have hopes of its continuing here in America, and color is marvelous. I saw one of your variety shows recently, and there was this line of dancing girls with their dresses swirling and all of those beautiful pink legs. Really amazing," says Macnee.

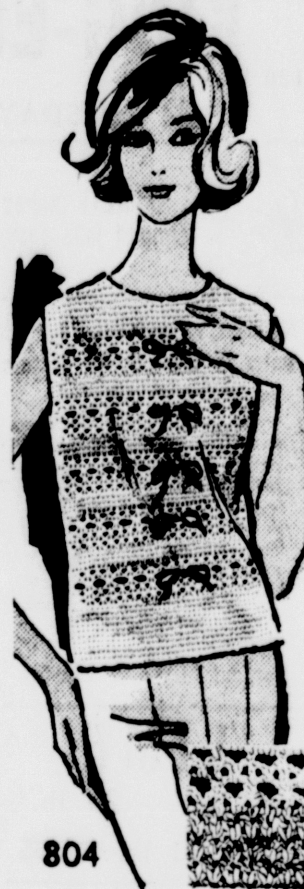

He's naturally aware that "The Avengers" very likely wouldn't have made it to American TV had it not been for the unusual number of flops plaguing the networks, particularly ABC.

"Yes, well, I imagine it has been a tricky season for your networks this year," comments Macnee with priceless British understatement.

Scout's Good Deed

LINCOLN, Ill. (AP) — It was a sacrifice—but Boy Scout Scott Goodman, 13, gave up his pet, "Chino," a German Shepherd police dog, so that the canine could help the sightless. The Scout, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodman, sent his dog to a school to be trained in leading sightless persons. In case "Chino" can't be trained, it will be returned to the lad.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Children Should Learn Care Of Books

You know some children as old as five, six or seven who enjoy the selfsame books from which they were read to before the age of two or three. This did not just happen. It resulted from thoughtful guidance by his parents from his earliest years. When your baby begins to Dr. Garry Myers show interest in pictures in a book or magazine, be with him while he looks at them and talks about them. Show him how to turn the pages slowly and carefully. Quietly and tenderly talk with your child about these pictures.

Very soon, as he sits beside you or on your lap, show him a beautiful book with many pictures and a small amount of nursery rhymes or attractive meaningful prose connected with these pictures. While your child looks at the pictures on a page, talk to him about them. Before you know it, you will be using the words on the page for this talking — you will be reading to him.

YOUR little child may be excitable and want to turn to the next page and the next. He may do it roughly. Gently and tenderly restrain his little hand and try to induce him to wait a moment till you talk (read) a bit more. Use your best judgment in deciding how long to make him wait. He may not be willing to wait long. Aim to cause him as time goes on to wait till you have read all the few words on that page.

If your child grows too excited or resistant, close the book and put it away, to bring it back later. Thus keep trying to read with him again and again during the next few weeks. You may be amazed at the way he will look and listen quietly for a longer and longer time.

Some mothers write me that their child as old as four or five will not be still long enough to read to him. Then they may give up and not read to him at all. If this child is yours, spend considerable time getting him calmed down. Provide him with a quiet voice, keep the radio and TV silent most of the time.

ENCOURAGE your child in quiet fun like drawing, molding with dough or clay, or making other things with his hands. Often when he is very excitable, cuddle him, rock him or sing to him, if he likes it. After some days at such experiences he may become more ready to sit near you while you talk with him about beautiful pictures in a book.

As you begin reading to this fidgety child, he may seem to listen raptly for a few moments then want to stir about or play with some toys. When he does this close the book and put it away. Don't try to read to him while he is jumping and running about. But just figure that each time he looks and listens for a few moments he is getting ready to look and listen longer later. Don't let yourself give up.

Don't leave his favorite book or any other books where he can get at them when you are not with him. Don't give him any book or magazine to carry around and manipulate as if it were a toy.

Some parents put into the baby's hand very early a cloth picture book. He may get amusement from it. But as he can handle it ever so roughly without tearing it, he will not gain good practice at using it for learning to handle a lovely book which will easily tear.

BE SURE the book you begin to read to your child is a very lovely, sturdy book with many attractive pictures. Use the same book over and over again in these early stages. No matter how tired you may be of reading from the same pages, he may seem never to tire of it. Later acquaint him gradually with new pages and eventually with a new book.

But, as a rule, the more familiar a rhyme, page or story is the more your child will like it, and the more he will concentrate as he looks and listens.

Keep on reading to him several times a day. Dad or an older brother or sister should also read to him. By the time he is ready for school, he may enjoy listening to stories of the second and third grade or of a higher level. Do keep reading to him a little, even long after he enters the first grade. There is no better exercise in concentration, in language development, in your child's growing wish to learn to read and his feelings of tenderness toward a book than your reading to him.

My bulletins "Why Read to Baby and Young Child," "The Nervous Child," and "Love and Restraint" may be secured by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.

Scranton Eyes Funds

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton plans to take immediate action toward relieving chronic flooding along Chartiers Creek in Carnegie, Allegheny County.

He said he would ask the state Legislature to appropriate $450,000 out of the 1966-67 general fund appropriations for emergency flood control facilities.

The money would be used to provide temporary protection for the borough's new $10 million redevelopment area pending completion of a permanent flood control project throughout the entire Chartiers Creek Valley.

Scranton Slates Trip To Viet Nam

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton's press secretary says the governor is planning a trip to Viet Nam at the suggestion of President Johnson.

Press Secretary Jack Conmy says plans for the trip are still in the works. However, he added the governor plans to spend two or three days there, possibly during the third week in May. This would be in conjunction with a previously announced trip to Japan.

Scranton had planned to travel to Tokyo in order to promote Pennsylvania at a Japanese trade fair.

Explaining the trip Sunday, Conmy said:

"On one of the governor's visits to the White House, the President suggested that maybe he (Scranton) ought to see what is going on in Viet Nam."

Scranton, a Republican, was a contender for the Republican presidential nomination that went to Barry Goldwater in 1964.

Asked whether Scranton's planned trip might mean he was priming himself on foreign policy with an eye on the 1968 presidential election, Conmy said he certainly would not draw that conclusion.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

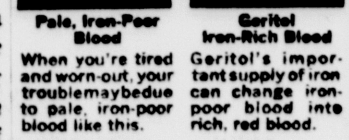

If you take vitamins, yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. That's because your worn-out feeling may be due to iron-poor, tired blood.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! That's because GERITOL not only contains 7 vitamins but, in addition, supplies the amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calf's liver! Seven times the iron in a pound of spinach! In only one day, GERITOL-iron is in your bloodstream carrying strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Test! Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency were often pale, nervous, and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement.

Check with your doctor. If iron-poor blood is making you tired, take GERITOL. Feel stronger fast—in 7 days—or money back from GERITOL.

YOU & WIFE ARE FINAL JUDGES

ETRURIA STREET. An In-town Estate, three big level lots with hedge around, brick barbecue, large block double garage, and, of course, a fine three bedroom home. The home has large living room with fireplace, formal dining room, modern kitchen and bath, walk in closets in connection with the bedrooms. The basement is paneled and divided the way you imagine a basement should be — separate laundry and workshop facilities, nearly new Mueller gas furnace, you'll like the home and the price. By appointment.

GLENMOOR. Modified Cape Cod three bedrooms, lots of hardwood floors and trim, tiled bath, gas vapor heating system with enclosed radiators, nice kitchen with storage nook adjacent for recreation room, outside entrance, cement walks and rear porch. Single garage, and some of the nicest trees and landscaping you will find. About an acre and a half of grounds. $17,800.

FISHER PARK. New two bedroom brick, hardwood floors, full basement, attached garage, gas furnace, all city utilities except the sewer, safe quiet location a couple of steps away from traffic, large lot 75x150. Should look it over before you decide for sure.

SOLUTION OF SATURDAY'S PUZZLE

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, April 4, the 44th day of 1966. There are 271 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1790, at the urging of Alexander Hamilton, the U.S. Coast Guard was established by Congress. The immediate need was the prevalence of piracy and smuggling off the coast.
On this date
In 1841, John Tyler became president of the United States, following the death of William Henry Harrison.
In 1941, German armies were pouring through Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria.
In 1943, American bombers attacked enemy shipping in the port of Naples, Italy.
Ten years ago — Actress Grace Kelly sailed from New York for Monaco in preparation for her marriage to Prince Rainier of Monaco.
Five years ago — President John F. Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan met in Washington for a series of talks on world problems. The talks were held in the White House and during a Potomac River cruise of the presidential yacht.
One year ago — West Berlin Mayor Willie Brandt of Germany was barred by East German police from traveling on the autobahn to his own city.

A Junior Editors Quiz About BODY WARMTH

QUESTION: Can human heat be used to heat rooms?

ANSWER: Yes. This unusual method of heating, in which human bodies take the place of furnaces, is about to be given a thorough trial.

Heat is something we must have within our bodies if we are to go on living, for it turns into energy, which gives us power to work, play, think and to carry on every one of our activities. It is the food we eat, slowly oxidized or burned within us, which provides heat necessary to keep our bodies at a temperature of around 98.6 degrees. A certain amount of extra heat escapes into the air and tends to rise.

In our picture, the arrows above the students represent this extra heat rising up. This is the heat which is going to be utilized. Christine Bylinowski, our questioner, tells us that the new Sherwood Heights Secondary School being built in Hamilton, Ontario, will have this heating system in operation in 1967. Although ventilated, most classrooms will be without windows and will be arranged to trap the heat passing up, combining it with heat from the lights and circulating it where needed. It is claimed that this heating method is cheaper than the use of furnaces.

FOR YOU TO DO: To prove that warmth radiated out from your body, hold your open hand close to your cheek without touching it. You will feel a glow of warmth in both cheek and hand as the extra heat is sent out.

Christine Bylinowski of St. Ann's School, Hamilton, Ontario, wins this week's grand prize of a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Folks: As far as I'm concerned, ground beef (hamburger) is the most popular meat in the entire universe because it has so many uses.

For the family who is cost-conscious, I suggest that you buy the advertised ground beef at the lowest possible price from legitimate meat or super markets. Then learn some fantastic ways to make it different. Many unique ways you can make up yourself.

Here are some that I have tried over the last six months, and have found perfect.

No matter what you pay for that pound of ground beef, and provided that it does not contain filler (you will know if it has filler because it feels different when you try to make a patty for a hamburger or sometimes it's discolored before cooking), here is the way to make it taste better:

Take one beef bouillon cube (the bouillon cube has all the necessary flavoring plus the seasoning) put it in a cup, pour a teaspoonful of boiling water over the cube and let set a minute or so. Then take a spoon and mash it hard, and you will be left with about a table-spoonful of liquid beef bouillon.

Pour this into one pound of ground beef. Mix it well so it will distribute evenly. And see and taste for your little ole self how different the flavor is. It will have a heavy beef flavor. This may be used in meat patties, meat balls, for spaghetti sauce or that good old American stand-by—meatloaf! No matter what you use it or what for—it's so much more flavorful.

ANOTHER LITTLE DILLY I would like to pass along. Try using chicken bouillon cubes in place of the beef cubes. I find them so different and good. Sure changes the taste.

I also have mixed one beef cube and one chicken cube and it's even better.

So, gals, use your taster and try these things out.

Another thing I would like to tell all of you who use ground meat (again with no extenders):

Grate a big onion in a mixing bowl. This will have liquid... after all, water is a large percent of onion. Put liquid and all in your pound of hamburger or ground round and squeeze and mix it with your hand. My does this change its taste! (Sometimes I add Worcestershire or some other sauce just to vary the taste.)

Do not use this the same day. Wrap it in plastic wrap and let it set at least 24 hours in your refrigerator.

Then make your very own recipe from there. It's absolutely out of this world for Salisbury steak, hamburgers, meat balls or spaghetti sauce. The new grated onion's absorbed by the meat and you would never know it was just plain old hamburger at all.

HELOISE. P.S.: I'll tell you more about ground meat and how to stretch it.

DEAR HELOISE: While cleaning a utility closet a few weeks ago, my husband and I were about to discard an old hot water bottle when I had an idea. I cut off both ends of the bottle, leaving the two flat sides which I cut into two oval shapes, scalloping the edges. They make practical, but decorative, rubber mats for placing under flower arrangements.

MRS. T. FIE.

DEAR HELOISE: While searching for an inexpensive, practical but attractive way to cover our tables for a money-raising sisterhood affair, one of our members suggested using individual sheets torn from the new rolls of decorative paper towels—as place mats.

They were attractive, and there was no laundering or laundry bill afterwards.

MRS. D. F. G.

DEAR HELOISE: Since towels usually wear in the middle, I cut the ends into nine of 12-inch squares and sew two thicknesses of nylon net on one side of the square, bind all around with bias tape and I have fabulous dish cloths.

They are also grand for washing cars, as the nylon net removes bug spatters easily without damage to the paint or chrome.

Also, just try using them for cleaning vinyl seat or chair covers. Most amazing thing you ever saw.

READER.

'Darling' Chosen By Movie Critics

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 200 of the nation's film critics have picked "Darling" as the best screen play of 1965 and Rod Steiger and Julie Andrews as the year's best actor and actress for their roles in "The Pawnbroker" and "The Sound of Music," respectively.

The poll of critics, conducted by Film Daily, awarded best supporting actor and actress honors to Michael Dunn and Vivien Leigh for their roles in "Ship of Fools."

Elizabeth Hartman, the blind girl of "A Patch of Blue," was selected as the find of the year. Barry Gordon, who portrayed Nick in "A Thousand Clowns," and Patty Duke, who played the title role in "Billie," were voted best juvenile actor and actress, respectively.

Pennsylvania Rejects Ballot Place Petitions

HARRISBURG (AP)—Nominating petitions filed by the Constitutional Party have been rejected by the State Elections Bureau because of insufficient signatures.

Edward S. Swartz of nearby Hummelstown, the gubernatorial candidate on the ticket, said his party probably would take the rejection to court.

None Was Handy

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the tourists recently marooned in a heavy snowfall was Walter Immel of Streator, Ill. He is president of a company which manufacturers snow plows.

'Story Hour' To Open Here

Mrs. David McEwen, children's librarian, has announced that the spring pre-school story hour will open Tuesday at the Carnegie Public Library here.

Children, ages 4 through 6, are eligible, but should be registered by calling the library, since seating is limited, she said. The series runs six weeks, with sessions each Wednesday at 10 a.m. and each Wednesday afternoon at 2. The story hour, as its name suggests, lasts for about one hour, Mrs. McEwen said.

The first story hour will include a puppet show entitled, "King Midas and the Golden Touch," with Mrs. George Guyton and Miss Mary Ann Jordan as puppeteers. Mrs. Guyton designed and made the puppets and the puppet theater for the show.

The second Wednesday will be highlighted by a visit from the "Easter Bunny."

Assisting again this year as story leader and song leader will be Mrs. Marvin Triguba and Mrs. Gay Billingsley.

Mrs. McEwen said that there are only a few vacancies left.

Coed Asks LBJ Aid In Boosting Donora Economy

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A 20-year-old University of Pittsburgh junior has set out to convince President Johnson that her hometown of Donora needs economic assistance because U.S. Steel Corp. is closing its mill there.

Nancy Kuzemka, an economics student at Pitt, first tried to obtain an interview with the president, but special assistant W. Marvin Watson told her the president's schedule is too crowded.

So Nancy fired off mail copies of a term paper, "An Economic Appraisal of Donora," including President Johnson, Gov. Scranton and several federal and state agencies on her list.

The college student, whose father has worked in the Donora mill for 30 years, said she appealed to President Johnson because, "It seems like everybody is sitting around waiting for something to happen or somebody to do something."

"I didn't feel timid at all," she said. "He's president of the United States, and Donora is in the United States."

U.S. Steel announced recently it will close its Donora Works, eliminating the 825 jobs remaining where there were 5,000 after World War II.

Strike Vote Reported Set At Ohio GM Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 4,400-member Local 969 of the United Auto Workers Union, AFL-CIO, at Tarnstedt Division, General Motors Corp., reportedly will take a strike vote Tuesday in a dispute over automation in a department employing 800.

Local 969 President Charles Meeks said the issue is automated equipment in production of spring wire for automobile seat backs which the union fears will reduce jobs by 50 per cent among corrugator operators.

Injuries Claim Driver Hurt By Falling Stone

BELLAIRE, Ohio (AP)—A Parkersburg, W. Va., woman was driving along Ohio 7 across the Ohio River from Moundsville, W. Va., south of here last Thursday when a rock fell from a hillside. The rock hit her car's hood, bounced through the windshield, hit her in the head, and—it turned out Sunday—killed her.

Virginia Lee Thorn, 57, died in a Wheeling, W. Va., hospital. Patricia Ann Thorn, 37, was in the car when the mishap occurred but managed to stop the auto and avert injury herself.

Harsha Raps LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. William H. Harsha, R-Ohio, criticized President Johnson Sunday for asking American housewives farmers and businessmen to sacrifice to check inflation while the federal government continues an unequalled spending spree. He suggested the President learn that austerity begins at home.

Keep In Trim

Buildup For Thin Girls

Thin girls, dust off a dream—the dream of you, the picture of health.

An underweight teen - ager sums up her dilemma this way: "The more I worry the less weight I gain. It's upsetting to see my friends with nice figures while I lag behind."

Ida Jean Kain

"What kind of food, what kind of exercise is best? Sweets are seldom eaten because I believe in tooth conservation. I eat fairly well now, and go for plenty of fruits, vegetables and milk. However, I only started this a few months ago, because up until then I was too nervous to eat much at all. I look and feel better, but I gain so slowly. I guess I'm impatient. In your column you help overweight girls by telling them to 'think slim.' How should an underweight think?"

THAT'S a key question. The answer: Think relax. Let go with your muscles. Worry is a form of tension. Heightened muscular tension squanders calories. Moreover, worry and tension can interfere with the digestion and assimilation of food.

Instead of trying not to worry, deliberately let go with your muscles. In your mind picture something pleasant. Try relaxing right now. Smile. Get the feeling that you've swallowed a bit of sunshine. It's a lovely, lighthearted feeling.

Governor Congratulates Chamber On Observance

The East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce today received a letter of congratulation from Gov. James A. Rhodes as it opened the local phase of a nationwide observance calling attention to the role of the Chamber in community development and improvement.

Marking National Chamber of Commerce Week, the Chamber has arranged a window display at the D. M. Ogilvie Co. store to call attention to the services it provides its members and the community. The observance began Sunday and will continue through next Saturday.

"I have long been associated with chambers of commerce throughout this great state and I know how much they add to the economic progress of our cities," the governor wrote.

"Our State Development Department works closely with chambers of commerce and excellent liaison is maintained in industrial development and other economic growth projects. This cooperative effort helps produce the stimulating growth our state has experienced."

"I am pleased to congratulate your Chamber of Commerce during this observance and I urge you to continue in our joint effort for continued success in the State of Ohio."

A congratulatory message also was received from Barton A. Holl, chairman of the board of the Ohio Chamber, and Ralph R. Baldenhofer, president of the organization.

"Your Chamber of Commerce, serving business and commerce in its area, contributes greatly to the high level of business activity which Ohio enjoys today," they said.

"Through the closely-knit network of cooperation between all chambers throughout the state, a wide variety of highly beneficial programs for civic and corporate improvements is constantly under way for the benefit of our job-producing economy."

The local Chamber serves as the means by which corporate and public officials can join in efforts to improve Ohio, the statement said.

Wilderness Wins Mrs. Johnson's Praise On Jaunt

PANTHER JUNCTION, Tex. (AP)—Suntanned from a Rio Grande raft ride, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson ended a weekend in the Big Bend country today expressing delight at its spectacular wilderness grandeur.

The President's wife went Western in blue jeans, checked shirts and sneakers amid the rugged peaks of the Chisos (ghost) Mountains on the Texas-Mexican border.

Everything from the dramatic lighting effects to the tenacity of life here—"things growing in a cupful of soil"—intrigued her.

Though she brought along a press party of 70, Mrs. Johnson was struck mainly by the vast solitude and how quickly "you are able to get this completely out into the wilderness."

The 53-year-old First Lady took in gay stride a mile and a half hike up Lost Mine Trail. She sang along at a moonlight campfire and listened to the tales of the Old West.

She was unperturbed by a sudden dust storm that climaxed a riverside steak fry. She even helped paddle and dangled her feet in the cold water on an 11-mile Rio Grande float trip in a big yellow life raft through Mariscal Canyon, with its towering limestone cliffs 1,500 feet high.

The Palm Sunday raft ride was the highlight of the visit. It took up most of the day—after a flapjack outdoor breakfast and a 5-minute special Palm Sunday church service conducted by the park chaplain.

just for the White House travelers.

There were frequent dousings from river water. A few had unexpected spills into the river. But no one minded these cooling applications in the 90-degree heat, with no place to hide from the sweltering sun. Mrs. Johnson kept applying protective layers of suntan lotion.

Afterwards, she told reporters she was reminded how very pleasant simple things can be—"a vagrant breeze, a drink of water, just the feeling that you have enough strength to cope with paddling a canoe—to get out in the open and to come to terms with things."

Man Delivers Infant Making Him Grandad

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Robert L. Akins delivered the baby which made him a grandfather Sunday.

Akins, 43, was called on to play midwife at his home in the predawn hours when his daughter's baby began to arrive before the ambulance.

The 6 pound, 6 ounce baby girl was promptly named Traci Dawn.

The new parents, Bill Tucker, 22, and his wife, Deborah, 18, had spent the night at the Akins home while Bill attended an Army reserve drill.

Adventists Grow

MOUNT VERNON, Ohio (AP)—The Seventh-Day Adventist Church in Ohio had 8,291 members as of Jan. 1, a gain of 836 in two years, the denomination's Ohio Conference president, F. W. Wernick, reported at the 25th biennial meeting Sunday.
